S.M. County Assessed Valuation Increases

By VIRGIL WILSON

A 4.6 per cent increase—higher than was expected—in the assessed value of San Mateo County property, has been announced by County Assessor Jack Estes.

Estes said the grand total, exclusive of the value of property owned by public utilities, is $1,474,807,985. The figure is approcimately 25 per cent of actual value.

The increase was lower than the 5.6 per cent gain of last year, but Estes said it was still larger than he had expected. He credited a more thorough auditing program, as required by state legislation passed last year, with causing a good part of the increase. There appears to be "better reporting" of assets by San Mateo County industrial and commercial owners, he noted.

Now that audits are requied to be made at least once every four years, Estes said, owners "seem to be more careful in filing their reports."

In addition to the value of utlities, the grand total does not include $52,010,900 in exemptions granted to veterans, schools, churches, and charitable institutions.

The sharpest increases this year were in Brisbane, where a re-appraisal program was conducted, and in Colma, where some cemetery lands not used for that purpose at the present time lost their exemptions because of a new state law.

Estes said he thought the percentage of increase for the county would be down this year because there was no major re-appraisal program and because this year, for the first time, depreciation is being allowed on machinery, equipment, office furniture and fixtures. The increased reporting of inventory assets, however, more than offset losses caused by the new depreciation policy.

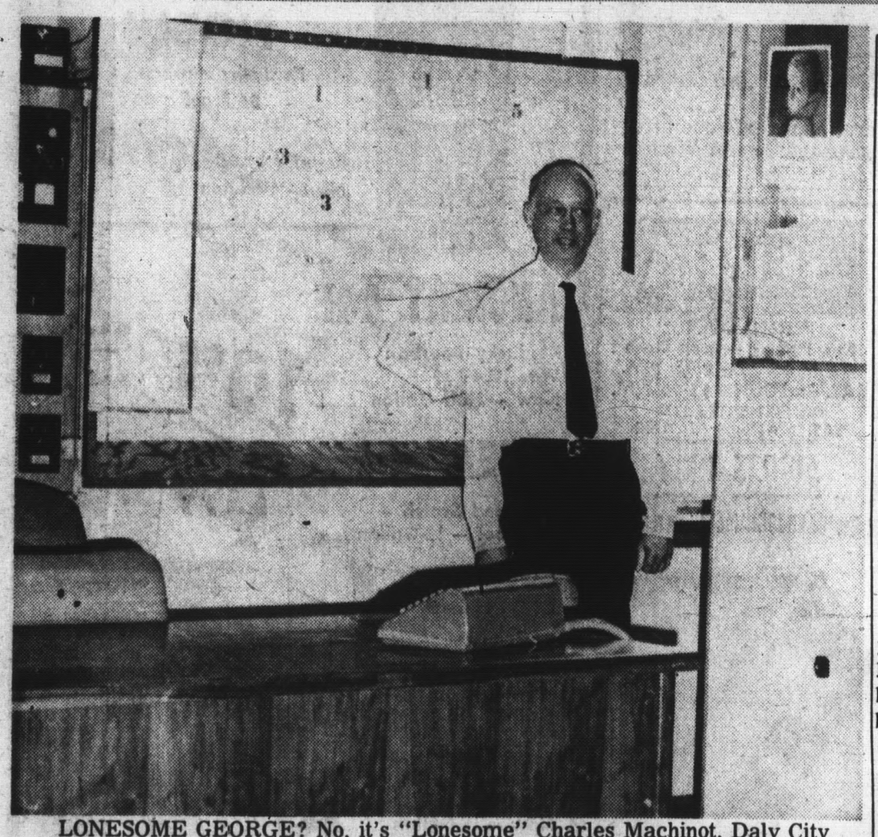
Utilities property is appraised by the State Board of Equalization and the values it sets are announced in August.

Here is a list showing the valuation of the secured roll (land and buildings) for each of the cities and the unincorporated area of the county and the percentage of increase over last year:

Atherton — $38,153,380; 1.6 percent; Belmont — $46,475,945; 2.1 per cent; Brisbane — $7,174,215; 19.85 per cent; Burlingame — $82,386,415; 1.6 per cent; Colma — $1,857,835; 13.45 per cent; Daly City — $109,624,275; 1.0 per cent.

Half Moon Bay — $7,392,690; 8.7 per cent; Hillsborough—$47,758,840; 1.7 per cent; Menlo Park — $82,718,605; 4.8 per cent; Millbrae — $52,012,005; 1.2 per cent; Pacifica — $45,080,170; 4.7 per cent.

Portola Valley — $14,870,130; 3.4 per cent; Redwood City — $121,176,525; 2.5 per cent; San Bruno — $63,329,305; .6 per cent; San Carlos — $72,395,745; 2.2 per cent; San Mateo — $184,334,700; 2.8 per cent; South San Francisco — $122,182,440; 2.3 per cent; Woodside — $23,706,230; 2.2 per cent; Unincorporated — $186,551,285; 5.2 per cent.



LONESOME GEORGE? No, it's "Lonesome" Charles Machinot, Daly City police dispatcher. The reason Machinot is lonesome is because the officers who once jammed the tiny police headquarters building at 75 Wellington Avenue have long since moved to new expanded quarters in the Civic Center. Officials have informed dispatchers that they, too, will be moving within two months to the new location — undoubtedly one of the most modern in California. (Post Photo)

Key Posts Filled In Pacifica

Pacifica councilmen, who have been conducting several personnel sessions in recent weeks, have made a number of city board and commission appointments.

One of the city's key commission vacancies — park, beach and recreation — went to Walton A. Sharp.

Sharp was named to a four-year term to succeed Mrs. Margaret Mosely, who resigned because of the press of personal business. She had been on the

PUC Thinks Rail Plan Satisfactory

Extension of an upgraded Southern Pacific commute service to downtown San Francisco, one of several transit plans being considered by the West Bay Rapid transit authority, has won the encouragement of the California Public utilities Commission.

PUC President Peter E. Mitchell, replying to questions asked by the Authority, said the other plans under consideration appear to be feasible but described the Southern Pacific idea as providing "a satisfactory rapid transit service with a minimum investment, particularly when compared with new rapid transit construction."

The alternates include extending the Bay Area Rapid Transit System into or through San Mateo County, using a combination of BART and SP, and an all-bus service.

THOMAS NOONAN, right, new chairman of the Jefferson Elementary School District Board of Trustees, presented a framed copy of a State Legislature resolution of commendation to retiring Jefferson Pnion High School District Trustee Lyal Ingersall at a testimonial dinner held in his behalf at Nick's Restaurant in Pacific Friday night. More than 200 civic leaders and friends of the retiring trusteee attended the testimonial dinner. (Post Photo)

Dinner Honors Trustee

The main dining room of Nick's Rockaway Restaurant in Pacifica took on the appearance of a scene from television's "This Is Your Life," as one speaker after another praised outgoing school trustee Lyal Ingersoll Friday night.

Fellow Jefferson Union High School District Trustee Elio Fontana retraced the more than 16 years Ingersoll served as trustee, pointing out accomplishments during this period.

In honor of the many years of service, Ingersoll was presented with a resolution passed earlier in the State Assembly. Thomas Noonan, trustee of the Jefferson Elementary School District, read the resolution aloud to the more than 200 persons attending the dinner.

The 62-year-old Daly City contractor was first elected to the board in 1951, and recently served as board president.

He is a member of many civic and fraternal organizations, including past master of Crocker Lodge 454, F.&A.M., Islam Temple, California Bodies of Scottish Rites; Daly City Chamber of Commerce; Daly City-Colma Lions' Club; Salvation Army, past president of the Society of Sixty Temple Methodist Church. and is active in local scouting.

Ingersoll is also a member of the Executive Board of the County School Board's Association, a member of the California and National School Board's Association, and a life member of the Jefferson High School P-TA.

Since 1924 he has resided at 439 Crocker Avenue.

The native of Michigan went to school in Wisconsin, Illinois and Indiana.

SCHOOL PROPERTY

Police Site Bidding Urged in Pacifica

The Laguna Salada Union School District property selected as the site for Pacifica's new police station will be transferred on a high bid basis if officials follow recommendations of City Mgr. C. W. Masonheimer.

In a report to the city council this week, Masonheimer said other alternatives permitted by the State Department of Finance are unsatisfactory from the city's viewpoint, and "both the city and the school district would benefit if a bid higher than that of the city is submitted."

The manager suggested that the school district place the property for sale to the highest bidder, with the understanding that the city would bid $41,500 to $42,000.

The state will allow the district to advertise the property for sale and accept the highest bid, negotiate a sale on the basis of the highest of two appraisals obtained several months ago, or allow the city to institute condemnation proceedings and take the property for "a higher and better public use."

Appraisals submitted on the property were $3,000 to $4,000 above the city's estimate of $42,000.

"Condemnation proceedings would be settled by the courts on the basis of testimony presented by appraisers," Masonheimer said.

The manager contends appraisers evaluated the property, located at the rear of the present City Hall, on the basis of $2.03 per square foot, the average price of land in the vicinity during the past several years.

"The property they used to arrive at this price is located on main through streets in a potentially commercial district," he said.

"The school property is located on a narrow street off a major commercial street."

The Hong Kong coroner's office released his name in a list of 22 perosn who were killed in the crash.

He was one of 16 Americans, nine of whom were from California, who perished.

Gustin resided at 70 Parkridge Drive, San Francisco.

Thomas Noonan was elected chairman of the Jefferson Elementary School District Board of Trustees at an organizational meeting.

Joseph Lewkowitz was named vice chairman, and Peter Caliano was elected secretary of the board at the special meeting.

Lewkowitz, re-elected to the board this year, and newly elected trustee Edward Tomasello were sworn in at the meeting Saturday, and a number of personnel assignments were made.

Bruce Russell was promoted to the position of principal at Jefferson and Vista Grand Elementary Schools, and George Grant was named principal of Crocker and General Pershing Schools.

Grant served as vice principal at Colma Intermediate School this year, and Russell was vice principal at Benjamin Franklin.

No 'Room' in Budget For Salary Hikes

Pacific City Manager C. W. Masonheimer this week reiterated his contention that the city's budget will not support salary recommendations submitted by the Personnel Advisory Board.

In his fourth "budget message supplement" to the council, Masonheimer said he will support any one of several proposed salary plans "provided they limit additional expenditures during the coming fiscal year to the $40,000-$45,000 figure arrived at earlier."

Beyond that figure, "costs would reduce reserve funds below an acceptable point," the manager said.

Masonheimer said the Personnel Advisory Board recommendations would cost the city approximately $61,000.

The manager has agreed to several classification adjustments recommended by the advisory board, and said there is an "urgent need" for an objective job classification study in the city.

"This study cannot be properly done within the city's own organization," he said.

Masonheimer will meet with representatives of the advisory board to discuss the various salary proposals July 11.

He has recommended that additional pay raises be instituted in January, 1968, "if the city receives additional revenues exceeding $50,000 from the state as a result of pending excise taxes."

S.S.F. Driver In Hospital

A South San Francisco housewife was hospitalized early today following an auto collision on Mission Road in Colma.

Highway patrolmen said the accident happened at 2:05 a.m. when an eastbound sedan, driven by Victor F. Ornelas Jr., 19-year-old gas station attendant of 394 Ferndale Avenue, South San Francisco, crashed into the rear of a car driven by Dennis H. Good, 24-year-old shipping clerk of 211 Seventh Lane, South San Francisco. Officers said Ornelas may have dozed at the wheel.

Mrs. Pierina H. Good, 23, was taken to Mary's Help Hospital and was admitted after emergency treatment.

Westlake Center To Offer Auto

More than 150,000 free drawing tickets are expected to be given away during the month of July by Westlake Shopping Center merchants, with one lucky shopper claiming the top prize — a new Camera Sports Coupe — the night of July 29.

Gene Perry, advertising-promotion manager for the center, said that "no purchase is necessary in order for a Westlake shopper to obtain a free drawing ticket and that the eventual winner need not be present to win". He added that: "Winners must be 21 years of age or over and not related to and/or employed by Westlake Shopping Center management or any of its merchants."

This marks the fifth consecutive year that the Westlake Center will have given away an exciting new automobile during the month of July. Prior autos given away were a Falcon, two Mustangs, and a Karmann Ghia sports car.

Perry told that the free drawing promotion has been so successful in past years that the Westlake merchants look forward to having the car giveaway every July. He said the first car drawing found 68,000 tickets being distributed to shoppers, with the all-time high being reached last year when 138,000 tickets were given out.

Last year's lucky winner was Miss Helen Specht of 16 Pinehaven Drive, Daly City. Miss Specht, a cleaning establishment operator, won the Karmann Ghia sports car after depositing but eight tickets.

Tickets for the free drawing may be obtained in any Westlake Shopping Center store — no purchase necessary. However, the eventual winner must be 21 years of age or over. No minor may win

The big drawing will be held Friday, July 29 at 9:15 p.m.

Bulletin Sent On Procedure In Lineups

Law enforcement officials, whose procedures have been materially changed in recent years in keeping with a series of United States Supreme Court decisions, have been given something more to think about.

District Attorney Keith C. Sorenson said he has sent a bulletin to all law enforcement agencies in the county, advising of procedures to be followed in conducting lineups.

The advice, he said, is based on the latest Supreme Court rulings aimed at guaranteeing that the rights of suspects in criminal cases will be protected.

Prior to a lineup, Sorenson told the law agencies, the suspect must be advised of his right to have an attorney present and that, if he cannot afford a lawyer, that one will be appointed for him.

San Bruno's Celebration Includes Chess Master

San Bruno celebrated what chamber manager Dick King described as "a good old-fashioned Fourth of July" Tuesday.

The city's first annual chess tournament was staged at Beckner Field and featured international Chess Master George Koltanowski — also the world's undefeated blindfold champion.

In addition to the chess tourney, a bar-b-que picnic, games and fireworks display was held.

Sponsored by the chamber of commerce, the open air chess tournament attracted more than 100 entrants and promised to be an annual event in the "Airport City," King said.

The matches consisted of groups of four players who played a series of three games each, starting at 10 a.m. and lasting until late in the afternoonm

Many families brought their own lunches and lazed on the tree-shaded grass and enjoyed the day. Others purchased drinks and food from concessions located in the park.

The small unincorporated town of Broadmoor staged a gala parade with more than 400 persons participating in the event, which got under way at 1 p.m.

Both military and high school bands from the surrounding area marched smartly down Eighty-seventh Street and out Washington Street to the strains of familiar tunes.

In Daly City, a series of all-star baseball games was held starting at 11 a.m., climaxed by a match between adults and the day's champions at Marchbanks Park in the heart of the city.

South San Francisco filled the sky with an exciting fireworks display at dusk.

MOST BIRTHDAYS are celebrated with cakes and parties, but members of the Pacifica Cadet Squadron 102 of the Civil Air Patrol celebrated their fourth birthday Tuesday by working harder than usual. Cadets manned the fireworks stand being decorated above by Debbie Jackson at the Sea Bowl. Proceeds from the fireworks sale will be used to promote CAP activities. (Post Photo)

10 Acres Of Grass Burn

Another 10-acres of dry grass on the eastern end of San Bruno Mountain were burned Sunday in three separate fires.

State foresters said the fires brought to 13 the total on the mountain this season.

The fires were started, they said, by motorcyclists or by children playing with matches and fireworks.

Councilmen also appointed a five-member tenth anniversary celebration committee to lay groundwork for the city's birthday event in November.

Named were Fred Ballew, Mrs. Bernice Bryden-jack, Harry Mosely, Gerry Schumacher and Donna Starr.

Three residents, Mrs. Dorothy Edminster, Will Frye and Emmett O'Connel, were reappointed to two-year terms on the personnel board. Daniel J. Modena was named to replace Derwood Bird, who had indicated he no longer cared to sit on the unit.

Barry J. Sullivan was appointed to the safety committee to replace Nathaniel Marks, who, as a state public information officer, has been transferred to the Redding office of the division of highways.

North State Warehouse Strike Over

The Northern California warehouse strike ended Sunday and the back-to-work movement was under way Monday. It may not reach full flow, however, until this morning because of the July Fourth holiday.

A new three-year contract calling for the biggest gains ever made by the warehousemen was ratified by overwhelming majority of union members in the San Francisco Bay area. This means a clear majority of all warehousemen involved, union sources said.

The Port of Stockton reopened this morning as warehousemen there returned to their jobs.

In Sacramento union sources said there would be no return to work until after a union vote tonight.

In the San Francisco Bay Area the number already back at work could not be learned at midmorning. Union sources said no detailed reports were available and it was assumed many plants closed by the strike would not reopen until Wednesday.

The new package means a 65 cent per hour raise for more than 20,000 warehousemen and women belonging to 22 locals from Bakersfield to the Oregon border.

For the first time, the contract places women on an equal basis for benefits, and a prolonged ovation greeted the announcement of this feature at the ratification meeting at the Cow Palace in Daly City.

Liquid Poured Into Christmas Baubles

The warehouse strike took a new violent turn last week when two men made a commando attack on a Brisbane plant and bombarded it with stink bombs.

Dean Z. Wedgewood, 48-year-old sales manager for the H. W. Gossard Co., at 235 Valley Drive in the Crocker Industrial Park, told Sheriff's Deputy Harry Bushway the attack followed a dispute with pickets over the taking of an inventory.

It had been arranged, Wedgewood said, that six college students would make the inventory. But when they arrived, the pickets refused to let them enter the building.

Management finally decided to pay the students $5 each for the trouble, dismiss them and have the inventory done by the regular staff of office girls. There was also a dispute about those plans, Wedgewood told Bushway.

Mrs. Barbara Walter, the company receptionist, told the deputy she was seated at her desk facing the front door when she saw two men running toward the building. One pulled his arm back to throw something and she ran to the rear of the building. Mrs. Walter said she heard the front window break and then saw one of the men enter the building and throw objects into the offices where the girls were working.

The place was filled with a strong, pungent odor.

Bushway said it appeared that the stink bombs consisted of Christmas tree ornaments into which a liquid had been poured. The bulbs had been placed in styrofoam coffee cups, which also contained pebbles, probably for ballast. A chemist said the liquid was probably butyric acid, a substance used in the canning of food.

The deputy interviewed the pickets outside the building but they said they did not see the attack. They explained that they had gone to another building where trouble had been reported and were away from the Gossard building at the time of the incident.

SSF Student Wins Regent Scholarship

Jeannie Keefe of South San Francisco, a College of San Mateo graduate, is one of three students from the school awarded Regent Scholarships at the University of California at San Francisco.

Regent Scholarships are awarded on the basis of "academic excellence and exceptional promise," and the appointment is considered one of the highest honors conferred upon undergraduate students by the university.

Two other CSM students, Patricia Hanrahan of San Mateo and Jacques Danon of Millbrae, also received scholarships.

Students Receive Grants

Ten outstanding North Peninsula students attending College of San Mateo next fall will have their expenses defrayed by scholarships from the college and various associations, foundations and business concerns, officials said this week.

Three San Bruno students have received scholarships from the San Mateo County Insurance Agents Association. The three are Linda Carol May, Brenda Gail McGregor, and Lillian Wereda.

Three Pacifica students, Marion Jean Silva, Lizabeth Cheryl Whipple and Edward G. Talbot Jr., also received scholarships.

Grants from the Mills Estate Women's Club have been awarded to two other San Bruno students, John Black and Phyllis Elston.

Kathy Bryan of South San Francisco has received the Melva E. Engleman Memorial Scholarship, and Daniel Kin Lee of Daly City received an Eitel McCullough scholarship for study toward a medical degree.

Gas Ignites In Garage

Accumulated gasoline ignited and caused an estimated $1,000 damage to a garage at 727 Rockaway Beach Avenue Sunday in Pacifica.

George Perreira said he was just moving into the home with his wife and their two young children.

He and a neighbor were getting ready to wash down the garage floor, Perreira told Pacifica firemen, when the gasoline was ignited by a water heater in the one-car garage.

The two men grabbed a nearby garden hose and brought the blaze under control, firemen said, but not before the flames charred the entire garage.

Woman Hurt In D.C. Fire

A Daly City woman was injured and a fireman was overcome by smoke Saturday while battling a blaze at a Redwood Street residence.

Mrs. Orlando Salcedo received numerous cuts about her arms and legs when she broke out a window and attempted to extinguish a fire in a rear bedroom of her home at 1057 Redwood Street, with a garden hose, firemen said.

CALLING ALL HOME MAKERS

By Donald C. Waite

IF YOUR BUDGET IS LIMITED, YOU CAN STILL DECORATE NICELY

What can you do if your budget is limited, and yet you would still like to make your home more attractive and more comfortable?

In previous columns we've discussed, and in future columns we will continue to discuss, the little, inexpensive ideas you can use to brighten up your home. And today, we present a way in which you can start on a program of beautifying your home without spending a great deal of money all at once.

You can begin your program by buying one thing at a time whenever you can and thereby regularly and continually add new dimensions to your home without a big strain on your budget.

You might want to start your decorating program with one bright chair or a pair of chairs to offset drabness of a living room.

Perhaps an attractive table lamp would make a great difference in a room.

Maybe you could use a handsome, framed mirror to hang over your sofa, credenza or dresser.

You may have been thinking about replacing your old cocktail table with a pair of the new brunching tables.

Or, how about an elegant headboard to replace the ordinary looking bedstead you are now using? The important thing is to think about a regular program of making your home ever more attractive, and starting when you can. When you are ready to shop, we are here to help you.

Our decorators, here at Sterling Furniture in Westlake Shopping Center, are at your service no matter what your decorating problem may be. We are open Wednesday and Friday evenings 'til 9 p.m. for your shopping convenience or call PL 6-7500.

Cartoons? Meatballs?

Nell Norton

Good morning, ladies . . .

Having that second or third cup of coffee . . . recovering from the fun, excitement of yesterday's picnic?

Then, here's a recipe for a dish that is easy to make, uses ground beef and will bake nicely in the oven this afternoon while you watch the TV soap operas.

Come to think of it, by the time you put this dish in the oven the soap operas will be over and you'll be involved in the Merv Griffin show.

Oh, well, no matter what your viewing habits (you may be watching the cartoons with your little darlings by this time) you'll find this meatball dish a joy.

PORCUPINES IN MUSHROOM SAUCE

- ½ cup uncooked rice
- 1½ pounds ground chuck
- ½ cup chopped onion
- ½ cup chopped green pepper
- ½ cup chopped celery
- 1 egg, beaten
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- 2 teaspoons prepared mustard
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- 1 package mushroom-soup mix
- 3 cups water
- 1-3 cup sour cream (optional)

Combine the half-cup uncooked rice, one and one-half pounds of ground chuck (I used chuck or ground round so that the dish wouldn't be too greasy) one-half cups each chopped onion, celery and green pepper, egg, well beaten, two teaspoons prepared mustard, one and a half teaspoons salt and one-eighth teaspoon pepper. Mix well. Form into one and one-half inch balls. Place in a baking dish.

Heat mushroom-soup mix and the three cups water to boiling. Pour over meatballs. Cover tightly and bake in 350-degree oven for one hour.

Remove from heat and stir in the sour cream. Serves six generously.

A Grave Eye Toward Future

Louanne Heath

This will be a summer Susan Walsh will never forget! From the moment that she walked down the aisle to the strains of Westmoor's graduation march to the day she registers for the fall semester at San Francisco State it will be a whirlwind of excitement, fun and work.

Susan is one of the talented, delightfully wholesome members of the Young America group returning to San Francisco International Airport tomorrow after representing the United States at the Montreal Expo '67.

Members of the Young America group left June 26 to perform at Expo June 27 and 28 and then they relaxed. They saw the sights in Canada for two days begfore flying to New York, where they went sightseeing on Staten Island, saw the Statue of Liberty, the United Nations, Radio City Music Hall.

Monday, they performed at Rockerfeller Plaza before taking a train to Washington, D.C., to entertain at an International Fourth of July State Department function attended by 1,200 delegates from the State Department and the United Nations.

"I AM convinced that my participation in Young America is in a way helping my school and community," Susan said. "This summer we will have had the chance to show people from all over the world that the true image of young America is not what we read so often in the headlines. The vast majority of high school and college students are interesting, hard-working and high-achieving kids."

Susan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Walsh of Daly City, attended Woodrow Wilson, Olympia, Fernando Rivera, Westlake and Benjamin Franklin schools before beginning her student career at Westmoor.

She has a brother, John, 15.

While one of Westmoor's outstanding students, she still found time for an impressvie list of activities, including membership in Future Teachers of America, of which she was president, vice president and secretary-treasurer.

She belonged to the Math Club and served a year as the secretary and another year as the treasurer. She was a member of the National Thespian Society, the Modern Music Masters, the French Club, the California Scholarship Federation, Mu Alph Theta — the national mathematics association, the San Francisco State College Summer Theater Workshop for high school students and was a cadet teacher at Vista Mar School during the fall of 1966.

BEYOND her activities connected with the school she has pursued an interest in sewing, swimming, dancing and modeling for the House of Charm.

In connection with her dancing she has performed in the Farewell to the Fox program, the San Francisco Opera House, the Bing Crosby Annual Golf Tournament, at Letterman Hospital, Fort Ord, Port of Oakland, the annual Laguna Honda Christmas Show, and the annual Union Show for San Francisco Orphanages.

Previous to the Young America trip to Canada and the East Coast she has appeared with them in performances for the United Bay Area Crusade, Rotary International, before representatives of the State Department, and on the televised programs, Shirley Temple Presents Young America, Pat Boone with Young America and Young America Prepared for Expo '67.

SUSAN was accepted at the University of California and awarded an Alumni Scholarship but she rejected them in favor of attending San Francisco State, where she will seek a secondary credential with a major in English.

"I feel this is the best choice for me. Attending college close to home will allow me more time to pursue efforts to work at dancing and modeling and in this way it will help me defray college expenses," Susan explains.

(Another help with the expense of her college will be the Westmoor High School Faculty Grant which she was awarded, along with a Life Membership in the C.S.F. when she graduated.)

Westmoor has been a "wonderful experience" for Susan and she dreads the thought of friendships that change with graduation.

"I will miss the wonderful friends I've had at Westmoor. I hope to see them in college and during community activities. I am going to miss the close teacher-student relationships I have enjoyed and I'll miss the excitement of student body activities, the games, the rallies, Spirit Week and all my club activities," lamented Susan.

MAX KURTZ, left, retiring president of the Daly City Rotary Club, presented the gavel to new president Al Belotz at the club's annual installation banquet Saturday night at the Olympic Club. Judge Paul Hupf was installation officer. More than 70 Rotarians and their wives attended the banquet. (See story, Page 7B.)

MRS. GEORGE GEISER of Pacifica, left, was recently awarded a pin for 30 years of volunteer service to Coastside Region Red Cross. Mrs. Geiser works in service to military families. The pin was presented at a recent award luncheon by Mrs. George Elliot of Pescadero, chairman of volunteers.

A Library Series For 'Tween-Agers

Boys and girls in the eight to 12 age group will see the second series of "'Tween Age Specials" to be presented by the Daly City Public Library this summer.

The programs will be held at the Westlake Branch of the Library from 2:30 p.m. until 3:30 p.m. on these Thursdays: July 6, July 27, August 10, and August 24.

The July 6 program will have as its theme "Let's explore Science, Travel and Adventure."

Excerpts from books and poetry will be read and appropriate selections from the library's record collection will be played. The group will be encouraged to comment frankly on the selections presented and to suggest books they have enjoyed.

Future programs include one planned around "Arts, Crafts and Sports", and another on "Famous Characters and History."

The library has announced a new series of picture book story hours in all three branches.

Alphabet books, nursery rhymes, and simple folk stories are presented for children three to seven, although there are no hard and fast limitations for attendance — merely enjoyment.

The schedule: Westlake Library, 275 Southgate Avenue, Tuesday, July 11 through August 29, 10:15-10:45 p.m.; John D. Daly Library, 6351 Mission Street, Wednesdays, July 12 through August 30, 3-3:30 p.m. Bayshore Library, 129 Acacia Street, Wednesday, July 12 through August 30. 1:30-2 p.m.

Brownie Troop Hosts Adults

Brownie Troop 1049 hosted an inter-troop adult function with 18 adults and 87 girls in attendance investing Mmes. Noami Gulianai, Nebuko Babertz and Linda Bigini.

Investiture was conducted by the neighborhood chairman.

BAKED FISH

Wrap small whole cleaned fish—seasoned with salt and pepper—individually in heavy-weight foil; enclose short lengths of green onions and sliced mushrooms in each packet and dot with butter. Place on a cookie sheet and bake in a hot oven. Serve right in the foil.

TEEN TOPICS

The Daly City Recreation Department's Westside Teen Club started the summer with a "Battle of the Bands," featuring The Flower Road and Our Indian Children. The winner of the battle will play at the Band Dance July 11.

They also will face the challenges of other bands at other teenclub dances.

A special activity is being planned for late August by the advisors Donna Anderson and Jeff Stahl, with the help of the summer council. The council members are: Margie Bartelmez, Nanci Bradshaw, Gary Browne, Gordy Contreras, Elaine Chiosso, Penny Geras, Viv Goldman, Barbara Herring, Lisa Kaplan, Dan Montelongo, Diane Montelongo, Maria Rizzo, Linla Scherone and Wendy Sparks.

The dress for summer teen club dances are: bosy—casual clothes, no blue jeans or cutoffs. Girls — dresses, slacks or capris, no shorts or tight pants or blue jeans.

Guest policy: If you wish to bring a guest you must phone the Daly City Department of Recreation on the day before the dance between 3 and 5 p.m.

Summer memberships are available at the War Memorial Community Center. Bring a picture and 50 cents. For further information call: 992-5356.

Judging from the reactions of excited teen club members last Monday night, this year's council treat was a huge success. The youngsters who worked so hard all year to make their clubs function effectively had the privilege of seeing the "Dave Clark Five" at the Circle Star Theatre, in person.

The 2½-hour show featured three other groups who "set the stage and atmosphere" of the evening for the excellent performance by the London group. KYA disc jockey, Johnny Holliday, was M.C. for the teen-oriented program. Flashing lights illuminated the gyrations of the Dave Clark Five as they presented a medley of their recorded hits. Everyone agreed that it was a most enjoyable treat.

Equal Rights?

A Dog Lover's Views on Cats

A blow on behalf of equal rights for dogs had been struck today by Leslie N. Weathersby, 121 Lucia Court, San Bruno.

Weathersby, who identified himself as the owner of two poodles, told the County Board of Supervisors recently that it is unfair to require dogs to have licenses and not require the same for cats.

The ensuring discussion revealed tht the board members are not unaware of what is going on in the feline world:

"I have heard reports," said Supervisor James V. Fitzgerald, "that people are dropping cats in the Half Moon Bay area and they are running wild over there."

"Cats differ from dogs, naturally," Supervisor Robert St. Clair observed. "It is difficult to leash a cat and toddle it down to the supermarket."

Chairman Jean Fassler noted that it is customary to spay female dogs before they are taken from a pound and called for an investigation of whether the same requirement applies to cats.

Weathersby told the board that he asked for the hearing after being informed that he would have to pay $3 for licenses for his poodles.

"I'm not against taxes," he insisted, "and I'm not against cats and I'm not against dogs.

"I take care of my puppies. I don't let them go out without a leash and I keep them in the back yard.

"Cats, on the other hand, get up on my fence at night during the mating season and raise all kinds of disturbances. And they get in my garden and raise all kinds of sand. I think it's time the board did something about it.

"I think cats should fall in the same category as dogs. I'm asking for equal rights for dogs."

The board was not unsympathetic.

"It might not be a bad idea to license cats," St. Clair said.

The matter was referred to County Manager E. R. Stallings for a recommendation.

JUST SO someone will have it documented: don't forget we reminded you how pleasant the sunshine was day before yesterday (and today? Probably more of the same . . . of what we usually have. And wet brows to you, too!).

ONE OF our more regular (oft-used) photogs, Donna Starr, is back from trip to Redwoods with hubby whatshisname, all worn out from terrifying trip up-and-down, 'round-and-'round on scene, stomach - churning Highway 1.

She has a phobia about traversing high places, such as cliff hugging, sheer-drop-down roads and tall long-way-up bridges — which is interesting only because she's an active Civil Air Patroller (female section, whatevertheycallit) who'd rather zip soar in (and dangle from) a lofty aero plane than almost anything else. . . .

THIS HAS GOTTA BE the success story of the year. Seems the Westlake Shopping Center is giving away a spanking new Camaro and each shop has FREE tickets for customers.

But a youngster figured this was a chance to turn a fast buck, grabbed off a stack of them (from no one knows where) and scalped 'em in the lobby of the Dental Building for 10 cents each. Service manager Bill Wilson nailed the boy after liquor store owner Carl Barbato complained to public relations man Gene Perry.

And Gene Perry would be the first to tell you that the WINK TRUCK gave away more free samples (soft drinks) during a five-hour stint at the Westlake Shopping Center than anywhere else in Northern California. (Psst. Perry is PR man for Westlake. You say you already knew that. Oh!)

SANDBAGGERS' DEPARTMENT — Three sharpies from local governments — Councilman Anthony Giammona, Councilman Ed Dennis and Broadmoor Police Chief Ray Savage — tried to take Yours Truly down the Golden Fairway the other day at Cypress Hills. Only they got trapped (if you'll pardon the pun). Seems the Post's answer to Slammin' Sammy pared a few, birdied a couple and eagled at least one. Excuse me while I count whatshisname's money.

Kennedy Cliches

Burt Kennedy became a specialist in the Wild West picture game as the "line of least resistance." When he sarted writing, back in 1946, he was bucking such competition as Billy Wilder. No one was writing good Westerns.

He's responsible for the clever direction of "The War Wagon," (currently playing on the Peninsula), a spoof on Western films which co-stars such giants of the saddle as John Wayne and Kirk Douglas. It's only the second script he hasn't originated, but can take the credit for adding humor to Clair Huffaker's straight story. Without the Kennedy touch, the film would be "just another Western," and audiences have come to expect more surprises these days from a Western than from a murder or spy film.

What interest can a writer maintain a format that is as stereotyped as a Westesn, we asked Kennedy. "I like the day in-day out work of associating with the kind of people who make Westerns, especially John Wayne. There are salient qualities in Westerns. I always say, 'the mountains are just as big if Brando is the star.' Actually there's no difference than with war stories. You're stuck with the same rules, and if they're applied the critics call them cliches. If they're not used, the audiences are disappointed. The only leeway is to add humor or an oddball character."

He added that Europeans don't like their Westerns spoofed. "Cat Ballou," didn't do well with European audiences.

THERE'S BEEN A RASH OF OFF-BEAT Westerns lately. "Hombre," and "War Wagon," are the most recent. Both feature the rather hip cowboy and a mixture of traditional scenes and the unexpected. In "War Wagon," the former is a barroom brawl to end all barroom brawls, and the latter is a double-cross on the white men pulled by the Indian tribe with whom they've negotiated a pact to participate in holding up the metal plated stage transporting a half a million dollars worth of gold dust.

"I've had a barroom brawl in every one of my pictures. It takes three days to do. The guys are given blocking, as with any scene, so they'll know where the punches will land. But you get some funny things happening when they run out of routines and start ad libbing."

Was it difficult working with two such diverse personalities as Wayne and Douglas? "They're opposites, but sometimes they'd pick up each other's tone, and we'd have to work to keep them distinct and separate. People say these guys are temperamental, but believe me, the only time a director has trouble with any star is when he's unhappy about the script or working schedule. Once our picture got started, both men realized the picture was going to be good, and co-operated beautifully. Professional actors are never difficult just for effect."

"Comedy is very important, as relief from the violence. You can even get away nowadays with a little sex, so long as it's played for laughs."

KENNEDY BEGAN UNDRESSING HIS COWBOYS in "Mail Order Bride," when Buddy Ebsen appeared in a pair of bright red longjohns. He repeated the gag in "The Rounders," this time with Henry Fonda. Both Wayne and Douglas wear longjohns in "The War Wagon," but as an added fillip, they also wear their gun holsters over them to bed.

Another angle that Kennedy employs is the sympathetic gunman. Wayne gave him his first job, for a western called "Seven Men From Now." Lee Marvin made his debut as the gunman, and the character has been repeated for actors like Brian Keith and James Coburn.

Turn Them All On

YOU'LL FIND HIM in downtown San Francisco sitting on a mailbox with his bare feet dangling over the road. His hair is long; his beard is matted; his levis are faded. He is a newspaper boy representing the Haight-Ashbury News or perhaps Royal's World Countdown.

His paper contains amazing bits of journalism by contributors with such literary names as Gut and Jerry, Cadiallac Ron, the Mouse Studios, the Underground Press, and Arab.

Most of the articles are collections of popular words strung upon a dirty piece of string. Currently the favorite word is love. Thus the editor of Royal's World Countdown — volume two number eight — extends his art felt love to his contributors, subscribers, advertisers and others. ". . . May the beautiful sunshine of love shine on you always."

AN EDITORIAL by Charles Royal entitled "Music Love-Power" extends the theme "Music" — Rock and Roll and its derivatives — "stimulates love — universal love." "Can you imagine," Mr. Royal asks, "What would happen if the world leaders could be turned on to music, if they could think music . . . if music could really penetrate their minds as a motivating force?" (Ah, there is a thought imagine Kosygin telling Castro to cool it in South America or have his funds cut, while a group is singing the great hymn of modern living "We All Live in a Yellow Submarine.")

"Their souls or very life existence would change," Mr. Royal continues, "this power would be realized. This music — from which springs love and peace — would flow over and heal the nations."

So filled with this happy logic, the reader moves to page six only to learn that it is not possible; the world leaders don't have souls. Paul McCartney of those great high-priests of the love music, The Beatles, shatters the dream. "The drag about this is that everybody has realized that there aren't such things as ghosts, there isn't such a thing as God, and there is no such thing as a soul, and when you die you die."

Recent reports reveal that the sage Mr. McCartney found the way to God and to love during a late LSD trip. In one of his spiritual moments Mr. McCartney made a sublime plea that the users of pot and LSD be loved as much as drunks. Mr. Royal published it in "The Countdown."

"They," — the people who condemn the drug users — "are quite willing to think about why they take a drink, why need a drink. Though they are not maybe willing to admit that they take a drink to get drunk. Most people think, 'Oh, no, no, no, I don't drink to get drunk.' No, no, no, I take a drink occasionally' . . . But nobody will ever admit that they're all standing there drunk because they want to get drunk which is the truth of it, it must be the truth. Otherwise, they would stick to orangeade."

I WISH I could communicate to Mr. McCartney that there are many people who are willing to think as highly of drug users as they do of drunks.

In the same issue of Royal's World Countdown, Derek Taylor declares that he came to realize truths about adults when he saw his father and boozing companions at a cricket match, "naked and yoke-yellow, micri-dotted with scarlet, the gin eyes flinched and flickered and fled behind leaden lids from the sunshine's candor." Ah, yes — the language of love.

A PIECE by Phil Freeman declares that the freakiest groups (the singers of the music that stimulates love) sing and dress as they do because "the fugs eat it up."

An interview with hipster singer Janis Ian states "I write all my own songs, yes. Mainly because if your head itches you scratch it, and I've found a finger nail."

The final note to a sermon by someone named Vito reads, "We all know someone who is in good standing. Who is the President in good standing with? If you are not in good standing with your superior you get fired. Do you suppose the President is not fired because he is in good standing with his superior . . . Let me go right on working for you. I really groove it. I'll bet you do, you red bastard."

Who needs hate?

OUR OPINION

Completion of Freeway

The already overlong dispute between the California State Highway Commission and the City and County of San Francisco over four miles of routing on the new Junipero Serra Freeway in San Mateo County is becoming a stalemate exceedingly dangerous to the public as a whole. It has already caused damaging delay in the Serra Freeway project and this delay threatens to become both interminable and intolerable.

A FREEWAY with a missing four-mile link is not only useless in solving pressing traffic problems — it also represents enormous public expenditure made in vain and thwarting of the objective sought by the public. In this particular case, it is a gross example of conspicuous waste brought about by the very agency supposed to provide new roads for the public.

In jealous adamancy the State Highway Commission clings to a plan, now 10 years old, which it claims is cheaper structurally although competent engineers and studies, utilizing the generous concessions that the County of San Francisco has offered, are able to show that the cost of an alternative route is comparable.

The official position of San Mateo County, long since endorsed by this newspaper, is for the alternative "Ridge Route" proposed by San Francisco. This position was taken for many reasons including such factors as added scenic beauty, the preservation of an unpolluted water supply, recreational land use, protection of wild life areas and of riding and hiking trails, and maintenance of aesthetic values in one of the most attractive regions in the nation.

TO the State Highway Commission we earnestly commend the thought that there is more to engineering than running a straight line from one point to another.

If the State Highway Commission would gracefully yield its present unsupportable position it would not lose "face." It would gain the gratitude of San Francisco and San Mateo counties and we would all get the Serra Freeway finished when we need it.

Isn't that what all parties concerned really want?

Worthless Canadian Land

During the past two to three years a number of Canadian companies have been actively promoting the sale of real estate to residents of the United States. Their sales approach is by direct mail and high pressure phone sales campaigns.

T. C. Rimmer of the Better Business Bureau in Toronto has had many complaints from Better Business Bureaus in the United States. "They are screaming about that ad in the States," he said. The ad he referred to was a well-placed and appealing advertisment which read VACATION PARADISE IN CANADA — 30 CENTS PER ACRE.

TWO EX-FULLER BRUSH SALESMEN, Patrick Garrard and Steven Simonyl-gindele, are the promoters of the advertised land, far, far north, belonging to Canadian federal and provincial governments. They are also the owners of the Canadian Information Bureau (CIB) which for $3 sells a kit giving information on available land, how to acquire it and the conditions necessary for ownership. The Toronto Better Business Bureau says the same information is available free from the respective governments.

A report from the Better Business Bureau of Montreal recently released reads in part as follows: "This land is considered to be inferior farm land with no value for industrial purposes. This land is not serviced nor is there any plan for such within the near future. These lots are too far from the land areas which are facing a near future development picture.

The Kid's First New Baseball

Le Pacini

Watching the awed grins on the faces of a group of nine to 10 year olds the other day as they delicately tossed around what was obviously their first brand new baseball, evoked a surge of childhood memories and the mystical qualitites of the "new Baseball"

Even to day the heady smell of fresh leather from a baseball just broken out of the box and its tissue wrapping hints at youth. If some hot-shot men's deodorant company could duplicate the smell of "new baseball," it would make a fortune from men seeking perpetual youth.

But at ages 9-12, the "new baseball" was even more alluring. The kid in the neighborhood who took the wraps off his new baseball, either a Christmas or birthday present or the just slightly smudged Wilson his father had heroically snarred at Seals Stadium off the bat of Ted Jennings, was at once the most admired and hated kid in the neighborhood; admired for obvious reasons, hated because HE got to take the ball home with him that night.

Of course, the New Ball always caused some managerial problems, mainly because the kid with the New Ball would insist on being pulled in from right field to pitch, and move from last batter to lead-off. No one ever minded his leading off, so much, but everybody resented his wanting to pitch, because there was something about the slickness and feather-weight touch of the New Ball (as compared to our leaden, water-soaked old taped balls) that made every guy on the block think he was a pitcher. The Ball just automatically curved furiously with a simple flip of the wrist, and suddenly everybody had as much stuff as Bob Joyce or Tom Seats or Cliff Melton.

Eventually we would settle those differences and begin warming up.

Nobody would dare try hitting that ball until it was sufficiently grass stained from curve balls which "broke" into the dirt so as to make it no longer so fragile.

Finally, after we had squeezed every last dipsy-doodle out of the ball, the game would start, and suddenly everyone was induced to be a power hitter, the ball cracking rather than thudding off our bats. Everything would be orderly and polite as we bathed in the mystique of the new ball and its amazing transformative properties.

But then, along about the third or fourth inning, the score 21-19, the ball would not only be grassed-stained, but scraped and bruised, and we'd start arguing again about tie bases going to the runner.

In a few more days the Ball would start being perceptibly softer, a few days after that a broken string would appear, and, depending upon how big a slump our power men were in, a week or 10 days after that the Fat Kid in the neighborhood would literally tear the cover off the ball, and the next day the little jerk who owned it would return it swathed in black tape and he'd go back to right field.

I'll never forget my first, very own, un-taped ball. It wasn't new. It had been lofted into my aunt's roof by a Fat Kid in her neighborhood who, probably because a week before he had lofted another one into the fruit bowl on her dining room table—it not having stopped for the closed window in front of the fruit bowl — hadn't had the guts to ask my uncle to scale the roof and loft the ball back to him. Which was good thinking on the Fat Kid's part, because my uncle would have lofted it back right between his eyes.

My aunt happened to mention the incident to my mother, and I overheard it, and for the next two or three weeks I was hooked on schemes to persuade my uncle to get that ball off the roof.

I forget what finally did it — probably a promise that I stay out of his neighborhood with it — but after what seemed an interminable wait, I did get the ball, and it was one of the thrills of my early life. It was, aside from a few scuffs and discoloring caused from exposure, in virtual perfect condition. The best I had ever had.

I determined to keep it off the block for a while, save it for a special occasion. I kept it in my room and gazed at it every night before I went to bed, and dreamed of throwing curves with it and hitting it over the short right field fence at Emeryville, and sliding on my rear-end to snag a sinking liner, like Bernie Uhalt.

A week or so after I had gotten the ball my family went on a picnic, or some sort of country outing, and my father and his brother — both of whom had played sandlot and semi-pro ball, promised to, "hit me a few."

After a couple minutes of warming up, trying out my curves and attempting to catch my uncle's knuckler, my uncle, upon my claim that I was a center fielder, told me to, "get out there," and he'd fungo some to me.

The very first ball he hit was high and beautiful in the clear blue sky. It hung so lightly in the air as I camped under it, having judged my first genuine high fly perfectly. But then it started its descent and it started getting big awfully fast, and I wondered if Bernie Uhalt had ever chickened out of camping under his first high fly. Unfortunately, I concluded that he hadn't, so I hung in there and that light baseball tore heavily through my glove and . . . you guessed it—hit me on the head.

It was a traumatic experience from which I never fully recovered. That day I became a first baseman.

LOCAL NOTES: Terra Nova Football Coach Bob Fisner was either awfully lucky or awfully smart when Pacifica's new Pop Warner football team, the Dolphins, got use of the Tiger field to play their home games. Out of gratitude, we suppose, Dolphin Coach Tony Racanelli will implement some of the TN offensive and defensive patterns in his play book. Watch out for the Tigers. They have a farm team, now . . . Former Terra Nova star tackle and wrestler, Ken Kirkland, received his BA in history from Stanford.

Of baseball's six 500-plus homerun hitters (Ruth, Foxx, Ott, Williams, Mays, Mantle), Foxx was the youngest when he reached that plateau (32), Williams (41) the oldest. Ruth did it after 5,797 times at bat. Nearest him in that category was Foxx, 7073. Furtherest was Ott, 9,360. At the point at which they each hit their 500th, Ruth and Foxx also had the best frequencies per times at bat, hitting .087 and .071 homers every 10 times up, respectively.

Mantle, Mays and Williams are bunched extremely close together, doing it, respectively, 7,300, 7,533 and 7,453 times at bat, with a frequency of .068, .066, .067

An oddity, the six men represent only three teams: the Yankees (Ruth, Mantle), the Giants (Mays and Ott), and the Red Sox (Williams and Foxx — although Foxx actually played most of his peak years with the Athletics and finished with the Cubs and Phillies.)

Eight New Viburnums From U.S Agriculture Department

By IVA NEWMAN

Development of new varieties is part of a major United States Department of Agriculture effort to produce superior ornamental plants through plant exploration, breeding, and selection. Eight new viburnums, plus two other viburnums — V. x carlcephalum "Cayuga" and V. x burkwoodi "Mohawk" released in 1966, were developed at the U.S. National Arboreum, Washington, D.C., by Dr. Donald R. Egolf, a horticulturist in USDA's Agricultural Research Service.

Names of the eight new viburnums are V. x rhytidophylloides "Alleghany," V. dilatatum "Catskill," V. dilatatum "Iroquois," V. lantana "Mohican," V. dilatatum x lobophyllum "Oneida," V. sargentii "Onondaga," V. sieboldii "Xeneca," and V. sargentii "Susquehanna." These new varieties are being released to nurserymen for propoagation and should be ready for homeowners in two to three years. Plants are not available to the public from USDA.

Viburnums belong to the honeysuckle family and are widely distributed throughout the temperate zoe. Many viburnums now grown by nurserymen are complex hybrids of unknown parentage. These hybrids result from open-pollinated seed that does not maintain the species and evolves a new race of hybrids that may include many inferior seedlings.

Some of the main features of these new viburnums are: Alleghany produces dark green, leather-like leaves and abundant, yellowish-wite flowers. The plant, which displays brilliant red fruit for several weeks in September and October grows about ten feet high and develops into a dense, globe-shaped shrub that is as wide as it is high. The plant is hardy, vigorous, and resistant to bacterial leaf spot.

Catskill is distinguished by compact growth habit, smaller and rounder leaves, and autumn coloring. It produces creamy-white flowers in mid-May; leaves become attractive yellows, oranges, and reds; and dark red fruit clusters dispersed over the plant are displayed until midwinter. Mature plants are about five feet high and eight feet wide. This variety was selected as a distinct plant among a seedling population grown from see obtained in Japan.

Iroquois is distinguished by its large, heavy-textured, dark green leaves, abundant creamy-white flowers; large, glossy, dark sacriet fruits; and dense globe-like growth. The foliage is glossy green in summer and orange-red to maroon in autumn. In mid-May, abundant flowers transform the plant into a mound of creamy-white. Fruit persists after leaves have fallen, and often into midwinter, if not eaten earlier by birds.

Mohican produces dense growth, with dark green foliage and creamy-white flowers in April and early May. Its fruit turns orange-red and maintains that color for four or more weeks. The mature plant — up to six feet high and eight feet wide — is a vigorous, globe-shaped shrub that is resistant to bacterial leaf spot. Mohican was selected as a single superior plant among a V. lanta seedling population raised from seed obtained from Poland.

Oneida is noted for its creamy-white flowers which are abundant in May and sporadic throughout the summer; glossy, dark red fruit that persists until late winter; fine textured foliage that turns pale yellow and orange-red in autumn; and upright growth with spreading branches.

Onondaga is distinguished by velvety, fine-textured, dark-maroon foliage that maintains a maroon tinge when mature. Flowers are creamy-white, and the fruit is red. It grows up to six feet high and resulted from a self-pollination of V. sargentii.

Seneca produces pendulant, multiple-colored clusters of orange-red fruit that are spectacularly displayed above green foliage. Fruit remains on the plant up to three months. Although Seneca is a tree-like plant and may grow as high as 30 feet, it can be grown with several branches from the base and kept as a large shrub of 15 feet.

Susquehanna is distinguished by its heavily branched corky trunk. Its sturdy branches are of landscape merit either when covered by glossy, dark green leaves, or when formant, expasing the corky, fissured trunks. As a mature plant, up to ten feet high, it is large and upright. Although ideal for park planting, it is not suitable for small house gardens. The plant produces creamy-white flowers and clusters of fruit that are yellow-green during the summer and ripen to a glossy dark red. Fruits remain on the plant until midwinter. It was selected as a superior plant from a seedling population raised from seed obtained from Japan.

Some Fine Old Varieties

Many of the older viburnums are well known and justly popular in local gardens. Some are evergreen and some are deciduous, some have fragrant flowers while others are just as popular although their flowers are not fragrant.

One of the most popular is V. tomentosum sterile, the well-known Japanese Snowball with greenish-white and white sterile flowers in large round clusters, no fruits. V. opulis roseum, he common Snowball, is much like the Japanese variety but local gardeners have found aphids a problem on these plants. Possibly with the new systemics of old common snowball will be as easy to grow as its Japanese cousin.

Among the deciduous virbunums that have fragrant flowers three are well known to Peninsula gardeners. V. burkwoodi, a hybrid between V. carlesi and V. utile, has glossy, ribbed, green leaves and four-inch clusters of white flowers (pink in bud) that bloom in February and March. V. carlesii is probably the highest scoring of all the viburnums available so far. It makes a flat-topped bush, three to four feet high with deliciously fragrant pink flowers that open from March to May and dull-green leaves that turn velvety-red in fall. V. fragrans has an abundant crop of very fragrant white flowers in the late fall after the leaves have dropped. All three of these viburnums need some shade in summer and a light, humus-filled soil.

Among the evergreen viburnums with fragrant flowers are V. odortissimum (Sweet Viburnum) with handsome, dark-green, varnished leaves and fragrant white flowers that open from March to May. V. tinus which has reddish flower buds that start coloring in the middle of winter and open to rosy-white blooms in February to April.

Pink Roses Lead In Popularity

Rose gardeners may sometimes see red but they think pink. Just about any gardener will answer RED when asked which rose color is most popular, but sales records prove that pink roses lead all others in popularity by a wide margin. In spite of popular songs and poems about red and yellow roses, gardeners prefer pink ones in their gardens and their demand for pink roses grows every year.

Just what makes pink roses so popular may be a topic for psychological experts, but one reason for their popularity is clear. Pink roses, taken as a group, tend to be sturdier, and heavier blooming than some of their yellow, white and red rose garden companions. Rose rating lists and popularity polls are always heavily weighted with pink varieties as are the lists of rose show champions.

The first hybrid tea rose, LaFrance (which was introduced just 100 years ago this year), was pink. The oldest roses still carried by the nation's largest rose growers are pink. After more than 40 years, pink roses like Radiance, The Fairy, Sweetheart, Betty Uprichard, Good News, Mme. Cochet-Cochet, The Doctor, Picture and Betty Prior are still in demand.

Pink roses have been selected for 22 of the 75 All-America awards made since 1940. Among these 22 have been some of the most popular roses of the last 25 years: Tiffany, Royal Highness, Vogue, Queen Elizabeth and Charlotte Armstrong.

The All-America winning pink roses represent every shade of pink. Royal Highness is a silvered pink; Gay Princess, a shell pink; Bewitched is phlox-pink; Lucky Lady and Charlotte Armstrong, while not alike in color, are both reddish-pink; Vogue is cherry pink; Queen Elizabeth is light pink; Tiffany is toned with gold; Helen Traubel is blended with apricot. Each of these All-America winners is pink, yet all of them need to have their color described with more than the word "pink."

Car Lifted To Free S.S.F. Girl

An 18-year-old South San Francisco girl escaped serious injury last week after her small sportscar sideswiped a larger car and flipped over, trapping her inside.

Several passersby rushed to the scene of the accident in front of 641 Grand Avenue and lifted the car enought to allow Nila Jean Nichols, of 319 Camaratas Avenue, South San Francisco, to escape.

According to police reports, a car driven by Edith M. Evans, 26, of 641 Grand Avenue was attempting to make a left hand turn into a driveway when Miss Nichols' vehicle collided with it and turned over.

Miss Nichols was treated at Kaiser Hospital in South San Francisco for bruises and lacerations and released. The other driver was not injured, police said.

Those Spots In Bruno-- The Bees Are Doing It

High-flying bees have been blamed for "pollinating" the San Bruno area.

A spokesman for the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District revealed laboratory examination of brown spots appearing on parked cars in San Bruno was "bodily exudation from bees."

And high-flying bees in search of greener fields at that!

According to the BAAPCD spokesman, tests were conducted on scrapings gathered from a parked car at 1101 San Mateo Avenue, San Bruno.

The analysis concluded high-flying bees exuding a mixture of pollen and honey were the culprits — not jetliners taking off from nearby International Airport as had earlier been suspected.

The BAAPCD was asked to investigate the source of the brownish spots after a telephone company employee complained cars in the area were being bombarded with what was described as "human waste chemically treated and discharged from planes over the Farralon Islands."

Jack Frisella, a central office equipment man for the Pacific Telephone Company, said a service station where he had taken his car after the spots appeared requested a test of the matter by the University of California, Berkeley.

"The way I understand it, the University (of California) determined the spots came from high-flying aircraft discharging human waste chemically treated over the Farralons," Frisella said.

The waste then drifted back over the city on wind currents, he said.

But airport officials flatly denied the allegations and said no airplane "since 1933" had discharged waste in flight.

Neither the University laboratory nor the service station in question could be located by The Times.

The BAACB's findings cleared the air—literally

Work Study Program OKd For Pacifica

The Pacifica City Council has approved an agreement instituting a work-study program in conjunction with San Francisco State College.

City Mgr. Bill Masonheimer said the pact allows students to work in various municipal positions.

Funds for the work experience program will come primarily from the federal government, Masonheimer said.

Masonheimer also told councilmen at their meeting last Wednesday that a meeting to discuss application for federal funds with which to inititate a community center facility in the Westview area will be held in San Francisco July 15.

Council at that meeting approved a resolution authorizing execution of an agreement with the county in relation to the transient occupancy tax.

Pacifica is allocating 25 per cent of its tax to the county for recreation and convention promotion.

Actual intitiation of the tax program depends on approval by two-thirds of the cities in San Mateo County.

One of the founders of the Spindrift Playhouse in 1965, he directed its first production, "No Exit" and "Invitation to a March" in April this year. Currently he was directing "Dracula." While with Pacifica Players, Marks was director of "All My Sons" and "A Streetcar Named Desire." He also acted in "Night Must Fall." Another part of his theater activity here was lecturing and demonstrating stage make-up.

With the Harbor Players at Half Moon Bay Marks was guest director for "No Exit" and acted in "Under the Yum Yum Tree." He said he would resume theater work at Redding, where he was technical director for the Redding Community Players while he was on the advertising staff of the daily newspaper, The Redding Record-Searchlight.

In Pacifica Marks was president of the Spindrift Playhouse, president of the Jewish Community Center of Pacifica, chairman of a fire-police consolidation study committee, and a member of the Safety Commission.

Marks' wife, Ethel, will remain in Pacifica pending a move possibly in the fall. Their daughter, Ellen, an education student at San Francisco State College, is living in Burlingame. A son, Kenneth, is a naval airman aboard the USS Bon Homme Richard, now in action off Vietnam. He is expected on leave in August.

Dumping Of Garbage To End July 29

Superior Judge C. Harold Underwood made it official last week: San Francisco must stop dumping its garbage in Brisbane within 30 days.

Attorneys for the Sanitary Fill Company, anticipating the injunction, have prepared for additional litigation, however, that could delay the matter for as much as two years.

Meanwhile, the controversial dump in the Bay off Sierra Point is being filled at the rate of 1,500 tons of garbage a day.

Underwood, a Trinity County judge on loan to San Mateo County, announced earlier that the injunction would be issued and that he would grant a 30-day stay of execution.

Charles Hanger, lawyer for Sanitary Fill Company, said he would file an appeal with the District Court of Appeal in San Francisco and would ask that court to allow continued use of the dump while the appeal is being processed.

Caspar Weinberger, special counsel for Brisbane, declared, however, that he will fight any attempt to delay the effective date of the injunction. He said it could take two years for the scavengers to exhaust their remedies in the appellate courts.

Judge Underwood's order upholds the validity of an initiative anti-garbage ordinance passed by the electorate and a subsequent ordinance adopted by the Brisbane City Council. The council had signed a contract with Sanitary Fill for operation of the dump but the initiative ordinance set in motion the legal action that resulted in the injunction.

Brunan, 82, Badly Hurt In Auto Collision

An elderly San Bruno man was seriously hurt last week when his compact car slammed into the rear of a large luxury sedan which was slowing for a flagman on Skyline Boulevard.

Fred J. Kohler, 82, 160 San Felipe Avenue, was admitted to Peninsula Hospital with a fractured left knee, fractured jaw, fractured right arm, and possibly fractured ribs. He is reportedly recovering satisfactorily today.

Police said Kohler's 1961 compact slammed into the rear of a large 1963 sedan being driven by Lois N. Baker, 59, 291 Bryant Way, San Bruno.

Mrs. Baker's car careened into the rear of a 1962 sedan being driven by Mrs. Margaret Williams, 70, 3141 Susan Drive, San Bruno.

Officers said the cars were all northbound and had approached an area where road crews were grading the right of way, and a flagman had signalled for motorists to halt.

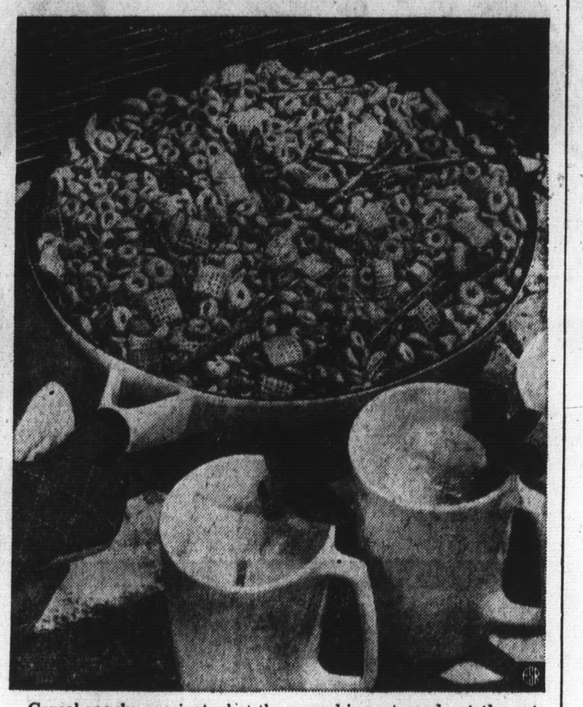
Don't Forget Cereal Snacks



Cereal snacks are just what the munching set needs at the outdoor grill while waiting for those steaks or burgers to cook. Not only do they make good appetite teasers, but cereals are also economical sources of food energy, protein, minerals, and the B vitamins. In this buttery curry and garlic seasoned recipe puffed oat cereal and bite-size shredded corn are tossed with small pretzel sticks and salted peanuts. The flavor is so intriguing, you may want to double the recipe. Cereal snacks remain crisp for days stored in airtight containers.

Curried Cereal Snacks

- ½ cup butter or margarine
- 4 cups puffed oat cereal
- 1 cup small pretzels
- 1 cup bite-size shredded corn
- 1 cup salted peanuts
- 1 teaspoon seasoned salt
- ½ teaspoon curry or chili powder, optional
- ¼ teaspoon garlic salt

Melt butter or margarine in large skillet. Add remaining ingredients; stir over low heat until cereal is hot and coated evenly with melted butter or margarine, about 5 minutes. Yield: 6 cups.

Different Ham, Cheese Sandwich

It's called Spiedino, Italian in origin, and is one of the most unusual ham and cheese sandwiches ever made. Pieces of bread are strung on a skewer alternating with ham and cheese. Then the skewered sandwich is batter dipped and fried in deep fat. Although the Italians serve it with a Caper Sauce, the recipe for which is given here, you also can serve it with tomato sauce.

Spiedino

- 8 slices white bread
- ½ pound Mozzarella or Muenster cheese, thinly sliced
- ½ pound cooked ham, cut in ¼-inch slices
- 1 recipe Batter
- Corn oil for frying

Trim crusts from bread, then cut each slice in half. Cut slices of cheese and ham the same size as bread. Place on 4 or 5-inch metal skewers, in this order: bread, cheese, ham, cheese, repeating the order three times and ending with a piece of bread. Dust skewered sandwich lightly with flour. Dip in batter; drain. Meanwhile, pour corn oil into a sturdy, flat bottomed kettle or deep fryer, filling utensil ⅓ full. Heat over medium heat to 375 degrees F., or until 1 inch cube of bread turns brown in 40 seconds. Fry spiedino, turning as needed, until light golden brown on all sides. Drain on absorbent paper. Remove from skewers and serve hot with Caper Sauce, or any tomato sauce. Makes 4 servings.

Batter: Sift ¾ cup sifted flour and ¼ cup corn starch together into bowl. Stir in 1 cup water, then 1 egg. Beat with wire whip or rotary beater until smooth and frothy.

Caper Sauce

- 1 tablespoon corn oil
- 1 tablespoon corn starch
- 1 teaspoon sugar
- ⅔ cup water
- 1 bouillon cube
- 2 teaspoons Soy sauce
- 1 tablespoon capers
- 1 tablespoon finely chopped parsley

Heat corn oil in saucepan; add corn starch and sugar, blend well. Gradually add water, mixing until smooth. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens slightly and comes to a boil. Add bouillon cube and soy sauce; bring to a boil again, stirring constantly, until bouillon cube is dissolved. Remove from heat; stir in capers and parsley. Serve warm over spiedino.

Cool Soup Fights Heat

Old-fashioned ice cream parties, a la mode in grandmother's day, have been brought up to date, and will enhance summer's schedule. Timely tips issued by home economists of the Dairy Council of California at Sacramento utilize modern methods for this fun-filled seasonal pastime.

Whether you use a hard-to-find old-fashioned hand freezer, its modern motorized electrical counterpart, or the type that operates in the freezer compartment of a refrigerator for your super-delicious home-made ice cream, there are basic rules that will apply: Cool the mix after it is prepared, adjusting your time schedule so that it can be kept in the refrigerator for a few hours to improve flavor and texture. When the ice cream has been frozen, let it stand for two hours to "ripen" either in your home freezer, or in the ice cream freezer which has been packed with a mixture of one part salt to eight parts ice (by weight). Do not fill the freezer more than two-thirds full of mix; this will allow for increased bulk caused by whipping during the freezing process. To freeze a two-quart batch of ice cream, use six-pounds of crushed ice, one-pint of cold water and one-pound of rock or common table salt.

Cream Tops Baked Apple

Chilled baked apples as a breakfast starter or dinner finale take on new flavor interest when topped with lightly whipped dairy sour cream and a sprinkling of chopped walnuts.

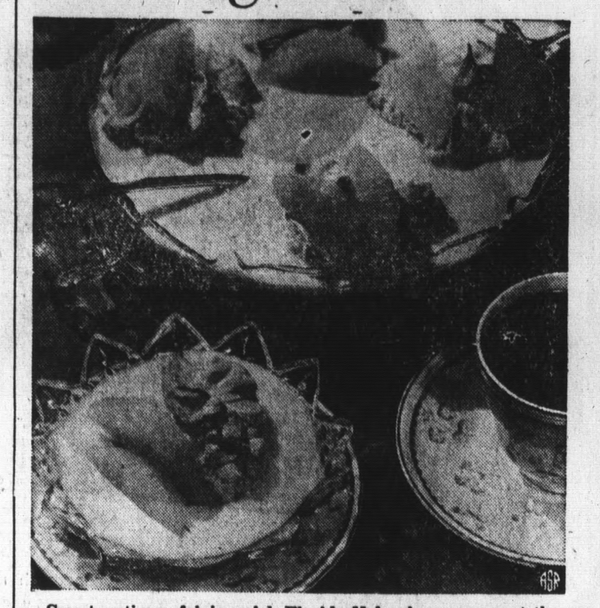
Try This Orange Floating Island



Sweet sections of juicy, rich Florida Valencia oranges put the crowning touch on islands of delicately browned meringue in this classic Floating Island dessert. The flavor of the creamy custard is delightfully accented by fresh orange juice and rind.

Valencia oranges are easy to juice and section for luscious desserts such as this as they are thin skinned and virtually seedless. Their fine quality makes them an exceptional fruit value this season. Like other Florida oranges, they are the best natural source of vital vitamin C, too.

Orange Floating Island

½ cup sugar, divided
2 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon salt, divided
2 whole eggs
2 egg yolks
1 cup evaporated milk
1 cup Florida orange juice
1 teaspoon grated Florida orange rind
2 egg whites
1 Florida orange, sectioned

Combine ¼ cup of the sugar, flour and ¼ teaspoon of the salt in a saucepan. Combine eggs and egg yolks, beat slightly with fork, then add to dry ingredients. Add milk and mix until well blended. Stir in orange juice and rind. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens. Cool. Pour into serving dish and chill. Meanwhile, add remaining ¼ teaspoon salt to egg whites and beat until stiff, but not dry. Gradually add ¼ cup sugar and beat until very stiff. Drop meringue by spoonfuls into shallow baking pan with bottom just covered with hot water. Bake in 350° F. oven about 10 minutes. Serve on chilled pudding, garnishing each meringue with orange sections.

YIELD: 5 to 6 servings.

Spice Up a Meal With Chive Cheese

Chive cottage cheese adds color and flavor as well as high quality protein to many foods.

Add chive cottage cheese to scrambled eggs and omelets for a zesty, nutritious lunch or supper; top slices of French bread with a mound of chive cottage cheese and broil for a quick sandwich. Use plenty of chive cottage cheese in fruit or vegetable salads. It will not only taste good, but the protein in the cheese will act as an appetite appeaser to stretch your lunch while slimming your figure.

The traditional stuffed tomato takes on a special eye appeal when you slice it horizontally into two or three thick slices and spread a thick layer of chive cottage cheese between each slice of tomato. The amount of the serving is determined by the size of the tomato and can range from a main dish salad to a colorful accompaniment for your entree.

And of course, as all weight watchers know, cottage cheese provides necessary nutrients with few calories. Creamed cottage cheese is rich in protein; it also contains calcium, vitamin A, thiamine and riboflavin in significant amounts. It is economical. For a small cost it provides a large amount of essential food item elements with no waste. And, the addition of chives does not in any way change this basic balance of nutrition and calorie count. A rounded cup (4½ ounces) of creamed chive cottage cheese has about the same amount of protein as a medium serving (3 ounces, cooked) of meat, fish or poultry; or 3 slices of Cheddar cheese; or 3 eggs.

First Family Likes Dairies

When America's Number One Teen-ager, Luci B. Johnson, issues an impromptu invitation to "Come on to my house," her friends look forward to tasty treats, many of which stress the use of dairy products.

The President's family lists among favorite foods such southern favorites as spoon bread, buttered popovers and fried chicken, while President Johnson's first choice for dessert is old fashioned fruit ice cream, made with a cooked egg and milk custard frozen in an electric or hand-turned freezer.

The whole family likes Spinach Parmesan, which runs the dairy product gamut from cream and butter to Parmesan cheese — and butter also plays an important part in the corn bread dressing used with poultry.

Mr. President, who is watching his weight carefully, always includes a glass of buttermilk in each day's diet, while the rest of the family chooses between "sweet milk" and "Buttermilk" at every meal.

Aloha State Joins the Gourmet Crowd

Hawaii, the "Aloha" State, is the nation's newest and one of the most welcome to the peripatetic gourmet. A visit to the melting pot of the Pacific is sure to be highlighted by the traditional island luau, featuring "native" Hawaiian cuisine.

Now we can set up a delectable island repast in our own back yards — or as an indoor buffet — with all the assurance of the fun-loving, generous people whose multi-faceted racial strains have now come together to make up another link in American citizenry.

Given: salmon steak from the jewelled waters of the mid-Pacific.

Given: cold cream of avocado soup via an ancient invasion of the "Haole" or white foreigner.

Given: a crisp sliced cucumber slad nestled in chicory — this, from those islands to the Northwest, Japan. Given: a chilled bowl of Polynesian fruits (the pineapple is counrtesy of an itinerant Spaniard, who planted the first one in 1813, and featuring golden grapes, sun-ripened bananas, the jungle-bred papaya, and fresh coconut for its mouth-watering texture.

1½ cups chicken broth
1 cup ehavy cream
1 tablespoon sherry
½ small avocado, diced
whipped cream

Pour chicken broth into a saucepan and add avocado pulp. Slowly bring to the boiling point (but do not boil). Add cream and again, allow to reach boiling point, stirring so as not to burn. Add sherry and remove from heat. Place a tablespoon of diced avocado in each bouillon cup and fill with soup. Top with salted whipped cream and serve immediately. This soup is also delicious served chilled. After removing from heat, allow to cool and refrigerate for about 3 hours. Top with whipped cream as on hot soup.

Dinner Magic With a Skewer

Behind the man who considers himself a wizard at the grill is usually the homemaker who gets everything ready for him. She selects the menu, buys the food, prepares the ingredients. If she's clever, she'll also make the barbecue sauce to ensure his success in cooking, for it's the tasty sauce that really makes the barbecued meat extra tempting and flavorsome.

Nothing can quite compare to a homemade sauce prepared to suit your own taste. Here's an easy and delicious one from the Lipton Kitchens made with onion soup mix. It's a sure-fire sauce with a lively flavor because the handy envelope of onion soup mix with wine, oil, soy sauce, garlic and pepper — and you have the tastiest sauce for marinating meats before cooking, basting them during the cooking. Versatile onion soup mix in its new role as a barbecue sauce ingredient will perform virtual magic with kebabs. Use it for almost any combination of fish or meat and vegetables: for example, try it with cubes of steak, mushroom caps, green pepper chunks and quartered tomatoes.

Serve your kebabs with a salad tossed with bottled real Italian dressing, and a basket of warm rolls. Be sure the barbecue sauce is handy for your husband while he tends the cooking. Let him take credit for his skill at "kebabatry" — we know the secret of his success is in the perfect onion soup mix sauce you've prepared for him.

DELISH-KEBARS

1 envelope (1⅜ oz.) Onion Soup Mix
1 cup dry red wine
¼ cup salad oil
1 tablespoon soy sauce
1 clove garlic, crushed
½ teaspoon pepper
2 pounds boneless beef steak, cut into thin strips or cubes
12 mushroom caps
3 medium tomatoes, quartered
2 small green peppers, cut into chunks

In 9x13-inch baking pan, combine onion soup mix with wine, oil, soy sauce, garlic, and pepper. Add meat and marinate 4 to 5 hours.

Thread meat, mushrooms, tomatoes, and green pepper alternately on skewers.

Grill quickly, turning once and basting with remaining marinade. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

"KEBABATRY" — MAGIC WITH DINERS-ON-A-SKEWER

Easy Switch Off Bottle

Finally, in the life of all young and even more experienced mothers, comes the time to start weaning baby from the bottle . . . and surprisingly enough there are those youngsters who just refuse to take milk from a glass. Home economists for the Dairy Council of California suggest that adding a bit of pureed fruit, molasses, vanilla or other flavoring to the toddler's glass of milk may give it just the necessary change of pace flavor for a gentle break from the bottle to glass for the hard-to-switch bottle child.

Potatoes Low Cost Items

Potatoes are low-cost plentifuls. They oven cook to mealy tenderness at a high 450-degrees. Meats roast with less shrinkage and weight loss at a low 325-degrees. To do potatoes "up brown" while the meat roasts, use sugar. About 40-minutes before the roast is done, cook medium sized pared potatoes in boiling water for ten minutes. Drain. Turn in hot roast meat drippings until the entire potato is well covered. Then roll in sugar — granulated or confectioners.'

Return to roasting pan to continue cooking 20 to 25 minutes. Turn occasionally. The sugar coating caramelizes in the hot fat — without adding sweetness — and provides surface browning all over the roast potato.

Now Is the Season to Enjoy California Grapefruit at Its Best

All summer long from June to September, California growers will be the main suppliers of fresh grapefruit. Both the ruby red variety with a not so tart flavor and skins that seem to blush a bit and the honey-white, yellow variety will be abundant.

You will find all sizes to meet your family's need — the large sizes 27 through 40 to serve as grapefruit halves or sections. If you prefer a fresh tangy juice, the smaller sizes produce an abundance of juice and will be more economical to buy. Many markets are offering the housewife five and eight-pound bags of grapefruit at money-saving prices.

Early estimates from fruit growing areas are reporting a lower supply of noncitrus fruits due to an unusually long, cold, rainy spring. Fortunately for the housewife, the grapefruit crop has not been adversely affected. She can plan an abundant supply.

For meals or for snacks — fresh grapefruit brings light, delightful eating to the whole family. Weight-watchers look to fresh grapefruit as a treat, not a treatment. One half a medium grapefruit contains only 40 calories. It's an excellent source of vitamin C and contains a valuable combination of other important nutrients.

Even if weight reduction is not a problem fresh grapefruit adds sparkle to appetizers, salads and desserts. To stay trim, cool and refreshed, enjoy fresh California grapefruit often!

MINTED GRAPEFRUIT AND PEARS
(8 servings)

2 large or 3 medium California grapefruit
1 1-pound 13-ounce can pear halves
¼ teaspoon mint flavoring

Grate 2 teaspoons peel from grapefruit before peeling; set aside. Work over a bowl to section peeled grapefruit, reserving all juice; drain sections. Drain pears, reserving 1 cup syrup. Place pears, cut side up in shallow dish; top with layer of grapefruit sections. In saucepan, combine reserved grapefruit juice and pear syrup; bring to a full boil. Add grated grapefruit peel and mint flavoring; immediately pour over fruit. Refrigerate several hours or overnight until very cold. Serve as a dessert or accompaniment to lamb or poultry.

"SECOND HELPING" GRAPEFRUIT COBBLER
(6 servings)

2 large California grapefruit
2-3 cup sugar
¼ cup flour
Juice of 1 California lemon
1 12-ounce package frozen blueberries or 3 cups fresh berries
1 8-ounce package flaky refrigerator biscuits
2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
¼ cup sugar
Cinnamon (optional)

Grate 2 teaspoons peel from grapefruit; set aside. Peel and section grapefruit, working over a bowl to reserve all juice. Drain sections; sprinkle with 2 tablespoons of the 2-3 cup sugar; let stand 10 minutes. Drain off any additional juice. In saucepan, thoroughly mix together remaining 2-3 cup sugar and flour. Add all reserved garpefruit juice and lemon juice; blend until smooth. Add frozen or fresh blueberries; cook over medium heat stirring frequently. Cook just until mixture thickens and becomes partially clear; stir in grated peel. Spread over bottom of 8-inch square cake pan or baking dish; top with layer of grapefruit sections. Separate refrigerator biscuits. Press biscuits between hands to flatten. Dip flattened biscuits on both sides in melted butter, then dip into ¼ cup sugar to coat well. Arrange over top of fruit; dust lightly with cinnamon if desired. Bake at 350 degrees about 40 minutes, or until bubbly and well browned. Serve warm.

LOX-GRAPEFRUIT-AVOCADO APPETIZERS
(2 dozen)

1 California grapefruit
½ pint dairy sour cream
6-ounce lox (smoked salmon)
1 ripe avocado

With sharp knife peel and section one grapefruit. Cut lox into strips ½-inch wide and 3 inches long. Peel and seed avocado. Cut into 8 lengthwise slices; then cut into third. To prepare each appetizer, roll piece of grapefruit and avocado in strip of lox. Secure with wooden pick. Place on tray with sour cream dip. Garnish with celery hearts, parsley or mint leaves, if desired. Sour cream may be served in half grapefruit shell. Prepare shell by cutting grapefruit in half and scooping out meat and membrane.

GRAPEFRUIT-MACARONI SALAD
(8 to 10 servings)

1 8-ounce package macaroni
1½ tablespoons salad oil
2 medium or large California grapefruit
1 large ripe avocado, peeled
¼ cup dairy sour cream
¼ cup mayonnaise
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 1-pound can salmon, coarsely flaked
Parsley

Cook macaroni in boiling salted water according to package directions; rinse and drain. While warm, add salad oil; toss to coat well. Chill. Grate 2 teaspoons peel from grapefruit; reserve. Working over a bowl to reserve all juice, peel and section grapefruit. Cut sections into bite-size pieces; drain and chill. Place all reserved grapefruit juice in electric blender or mixing bowl. Add grated peel, avocado cut into pieces, sour cream, mayonnaise, salt and pepper. Blend or mix until smooth. Combine avocado dressing with chilled macaroni; add grapefruit pieces and salmon. Toss lightly until thoroughly mixed. Serve chilled with a garnish of parsley.

MOLDED GRAPEFRUIT SEAFOAM

¾ cup fresh orange juice
2 teaspoons grated grapefruit peel
1 cup freshly squeezed grapefruit juice
¼ cup fresh lemon juice
¼ cup sugar
4 egg whites
1 large California grapefruit, peeled and sectioned
1 cup fresh melon balls, seedless grapes, berries or other fresh fruit, if desired

Soften gelatine in orange juice for 5 minutes. Heat grapefruit peel and juice and lemon juice; add gelatine mixture. Continue over low heat, stirring until gelatine is thoroughly dissolved. Chill until very think, but not set. In large gowl, beat whites until stiff, but not dry. With same beater, whip gelatine mixture until light and foamy. Add to egg whites a little at a time beating at high speed, until mixture is well blended. Pour into 1½-quart mold; refrigerate until firm and well chilled. Unmold on serving platter; arrange well chilled grapefruit sections around mold. Garnish with additional fresh fruit if desired.

Thirty minutes before serving, place 3 or 4 sections in each sherbet dish; sprinkle each serving with 2 teaspoons creme de menthe. Let stand at room temperature until partially thawed. Garnish with spring of fresh mint, if desired. (Note: 1 large grapefruit usually yields 11 to 12 sections.)

Drain pieces thoroughly. Combine any reserved juice with marmalade in small saucepan. Bring to a boil, stirring frequently. Cook about 3 minutes until syrupy. Birth of the Hot Dog Is Celebrated in July–Origin Clouded

So who do you believe?

Some people claim the first cylindrical meaty smoked sausage was made in Vienna, Austria, in 1852, hence the name "wiener." Then there is the school of hot dog historians who just as firmly believe that this sausage originated in Frankfurt on Main, Germany, about the same time, thus the name "frankfurter."

One thing that is known for sure is that over here in the U.S.A. July is National Hot Dog Month which is sponsored by the Sausage Council of the National Live Stock and Meat Board in cooperation with meat processors and retailers.

There also is some lively controversy as to where and how the hot dog originated, as a hot dog in the true sense of the word is a frankfurter or a wiener wrapped in a bun.

It's generally agreed that the wiener — or frankfurter — without bun, made its American debut in 1871 at Coney Island and it is fitting that this amusement center should still lay claim to having the world's largest hot dog stand. Charles Feltman, a German immigrant and butcher, introduced an all-beef product that was eagerly snapped up by bathers and fun-seekers at this Coney Island concession stand.

As far as the hot dog itself is concerned, it is believed to have originated in St. Louis in 1883 when a peddler, A. L. Feuchtwanger, started the practice of selling sausage in a split, buttered bun. The most popular notion is that the bun was introduced out of dire financial necessity since, up until then, Feuchtwanger had been providing the customers with white mitts to keep from burning their hands while eating the heated sausages. However, his profits slipped away at a rate equal to the mitts disappearing. He prevailed upon his brother-in-law, a baker, to design a bun to fit around the little meat product, known in St. Louis in those days as a "wienerwurst." The wiener wursts sold by Feuchtwanger were manufactured in the sausage kitchens of meat processors Tamme and Beopple.

One story has it that Feuchtanger's wife actually engineered the idea of marrying the sausage and the bun. Could be — it's generally conceded that women are better match makers than men.

Today spectator sports events are synonymous with eating hot dogs and it was in 1893, or so the story goes, that a German saloon keeper, Chris Von der Ahe, owner of the St. Louis Browns, baseball team, introduced the hot dog as "fan fare."

Also in the same year, some authorities claim the wiener-in-a-bun made its first appearance outside St. Louis at the Columbian Exposition held in Chicago. This is one of the lesser known stories about the history of the hot dog and doesn't appear to be as well documented as some of the information relating to St. Louis and the hot dog.

Herr Feuchtwanger apparently was the first real patron of what we know as the hot dog sandwich . . . because in 1904, there he was at the St. Louis Louisiana Purchase Exposition, dispensing the heated sausages in a bun to fairgoers. For perhaps the first time, the hot dog was then given on-the-spot public recognition, as the St. Louis Republic recorded in 1904, than a hot dog — unless it's contentedly munching a thick roll including a bit of freshly cooked sausage."

Despite the European ancestry, nothing is more American thana hot dog — unless it's baseball. But it was not that great American game which produced the phrase "hot dog." It happened at a football game. A concessionaire at the Polo Grounds in New York thought that the fans would like a hot dish to supplement their peanuts and pop diet. He decided upon "dashund" sausages and devised portable tanks to keep them hot while his venders roamed the stands.

And it was during this flurry of activity in the stands that the popular nickname was attached to the red hots. Tad Dorgan, a sports humorist and cartoonist, was a spectator that day in 1900 and, intrigued by the red hot dachshund sausages, developed a cartoon on the theme. Hurriedly writing the caption to meet his newspaper's deadline, he realized that he couldn't spell "dachshund" and titled his artwork, "Hot Dog."

Even this story has come under controversy as some camps contend that Dorgan was not in the stands that day and that it wasn't until 1915 that he baptized the sandwich and the name stuck.

Jacque Filiatreau, Chicago secretary of the Sausage Council, says that this year Americans will eat more than 80 hot dogs on the average. With that there is no controversy as the hot dog, no matter what its history, retains its title as one of the most popular sandwiches that the Americans ever invented.

Sugar Intake –No Change

What's America's sugar intake these days? Not much change from year to year: about 98-pounds in 1966 per person (about 170,255 calories of inexpensive nutritional energy).

Only about a third of the 98-pounds is actually purchased for home use—to be used for cosking or as a sweetener for cereals, fresh fruits, or beverages. Or to be consumed similarly in restaurants, schools and other institutions.

Most of the sugar a person consumes comes in the commercially prepared foods bought for use at home. These include cereals, condiments, soups, breads, salad dressings, puddings, gelatins. Also ice creams, ices, sherbets and other dairy made products, preserves and canned and frozen fruits. Not to mention cakes, cookies, desserts, soft drinks and beverages, candy and the many prepared convenience foods.

Not for sweetness alone is sugar so essential to many different foods. Sugar also provides blending, and intensifies the flavor taste of other ingredients. Adds texture and mouth-feel along with body or viscosity to foods. Aids in color maintenance—or produces browning by carmelization. Sugar feeds yeast, strengthens gluten, and tenderizes flour in mixtures; stabalizes egg foams; and in jams and jellies (and other foods, too) sugar is a preservative.

These Wives Admit It–Men Are Better Cooks Than Women

Men are better cooks than women, so say 1600 women from the 50 states! And they should know because their husbands were the State Cooking Champions during the past 7 years of the Men's National Cooking Championship. Furthermore, they declare in recent years most newly married husbands are indoctrinated in kitchen lore almost as soon as the honeymoon is over. It was noted that in cases of long established marriages the husband had seldom approached the kitchen until middle-age or retirement age. All stated the cooking Championship is a lively incentive to stimulate the men into sharpening up their culinary skills.

In praise of their husbands, the wives said the men were remarkably quick to grasp basic cooking principles and to produce savory dishes. The progression from the preparation of familiar dishes to the creation of orignial ones is faster for men than women, to, the ladies observed.

This poll of wives of former winners and runners-up in the Men's National Cooking Championship was made by the competition's sponsor the Potato Chip Institute International. The Championship's purpose is to find the best amateur male cook in the U.S.A.

Women Rate Men "Great'

The study also revealed that a man's interest in cooking is continuous. Once introduced to the pleasures of cooking his enthusiasm grows. As a hobby it provides him with a real creative outlet, release from nervous tensions and business pressures as well as offering other rich rewards.

While there are many "good" women cooks, it takes the men cooks to rate "great." 150 psychologists attribute this to the masculine mind's absorption and attention to details. Men have the more adventuresome spirit, too, which leads to the improvisation and experimentation which makes creative cooking. There seems to be very few mediocre cooks among the men. The male cook is very good — or he just doesn't cook.

Champions' Recipes Simple

ple

A man's recipe does not necessarily have to be complicated to be a great one. For example, here is an original recipe which proved to be a winner for its creation in a recent Cooking Championship:

GOLDEN CHIP NUGGETS

1 lb. canned salmon, drained
1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
3 tbsp. ketchup
¼ tsp. pepper
3 tbsp. grated onion
2 eggs, beaten
1½ cups potato chips, crushed fairly fine

Mix all ingredients lightly but thoroughly. Grease cookie sheet lightly. Wet hands in cold water and shape mixture into balls. Put balls on cookie sheet so they do not touch one another. Bake at 425 degrees until nicely browned. (If desired, the balls may be made the size of marbles and served with toothpicks and a dipping sauce made of a mixture of 1 cup sour cream, 2 tsp. prepared horseradish, and 1 tsp. salt.)

Championship Entries and Awards

The Men's National Cooking Championship is open to any adult male who can cook. It is free. No box tops, labels, coupons or entry blanks are necessary. It is strictly a competition closed to women and professional cooks. An eligible man just submits one or more original main dish recipes using potato chips as an ingredient. Entries must be submitted by December 1, 1967, to: Men's National Cooking Championship, P.O. Box 933, Radio City Station, New York, New York 10019. Each contestant may submit as many recipes as he wishes, making sure there is only one recipe on a page with his name and address. That's all. Women cooking experts judge all recipes.

Wives Get Vacation

All finalists and their wives will be awarded an all expense-paid week's vacation at the luxurious Americana Hotel in Miami Beach, Florida, where they will cook their winning main dish recipes using potato chips as an ingredient. Finals will be held in January 1968.

The national champion will be presented with $1,000 cash. Second, third and fourth places win $750, $400 and $200 respectively. This is the 8th Men's National Cooking Championship.

Try Melon Melange For Cooling Off

MELON MELANGE

A cool colorful mixture of summer melons and ices, just right for summer entertaining . . . easy to prepare . . . a delightful summer refresher. For an extra festive summery touch use half a watermelon (scooped out) as the serving dish. Decorate with sprigs of fresh mint, shredded coconut and lime slices.

Serve Melon Melange as salad . . . line the inside of the scooped out watermelon with Romaine and Butter Lettuce leaves.

As dessert Melon Melange takes on an elegant sparkle when you add Peach Brandy and Champagne.

MELON MELANGE:

1 Medium sized Watermelon
2 Cantalopes
2 honeydew Melons
4 Bananas
1 Quart Watermelon Ice
1 Quart Banana Daiquiri Ice
2 Limes
1 small bunch fresh mint
1 package shredded coconut

Stand watermelon on end. Slice off the top quarter, also slice a small section off the bottom to make melon stand straight. Using a melon ball scooper, make watermelon ball scoops. Place melon balls in large bowl in the refrigerator. With a large spoon smooth out the inside of the watermelon.

Cut the cantaloupe and honeydew melons in half, using the melon ball scooper make melon balls. Place melon balls in large bowl with watermelon balls.

Slice bananas and place in bowl with melon balls, mix together well. If you wish to serve Melon Melange as dessert, at this time add ¼-cup Peach Brandy and ½-quart champagne. Let the fruit mixture stand at least one-hour.

Using the melon ball scooper, scoop Watermelon Ice and Banana Dacquiri Ice into melon balls. Place on cookie sheet in freezer until you are ready to serve your guests.

Just before serving, alternate layers of fruit mixture and Watermelon Ice and Banana Daiquiri Ice in scooped out watermelon half.

Top off with sprigs of fresh mint, shredded coconut and lime slices.

Flavored Butters

There's no doubt about it — the fine, yet to be duplicated, flavor of butter comes through loud and clear even when comherbs or spiecs for giving savoir farie to what otherwise might be referred to as "the same old vegetables." Add your choice of perhaps onion, chopped chives, mint, garlic (crushed or minced), one of the seasoning salts, watercress, parsley or lemon. Pour over just cooked - until - crisply - tender vegetables for real taste excitement.

STYLISH SALAD

Take a few handfuls of ripe olive halves, orange sections, slices of bermuda onion rings and bite-size pieces of romaine. Drizzle with French or bleu cheese dressing and give a gentle toss. The result — a dazzling and sophistiacted salad.

Many U.N. Embassies Housed in Old New York Mansions

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — Some of the wealthiest families in American business and finance are among the former owners of stately old New York homes now used by foreign governments for their missions to the United Nations.

The handsome town houses, considered by many the choicest residential real estate in Manhattan, are located on and just off Fifth Avenue in a fashionable East Side district.

Many have been singled out by the city for preservation as historic landmarks. They are regarded as distinguished examples of styles of architecture and construction no longer employed in the city.

By a strange ideological twist, the town houses owned by Communist Romania and Yugoslavia for their UN delegations are linked by close family ties to Commodore Cornelius Vanderbilt, reputed to have been the richest man in America when he died in 1877.

These two one-time homes appear to be the most highly regarded among the 16 UN missions that have been chosen by the city for designation as landmarks.

The others among the 16 are the missions of Austria, Cuba, France, Greece, India, Indonesia, Iraq, Israel, Mali, Pakistan, the Philippines, Poland, Senegal and Tunisia.

The Romanian mission, a three - story stone building in what is said to be French 18th Century revival style, was built in 1929 for Mrs. Graham Fair Vanderbilt, the divorced wife of William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., a great - grandson of the commodore.

The Vanderbilt millions came primarily from the New York Central Railroad but also from shipping and ferries in New York Harbor.

Mrs. Vanderbilt, born Virginia Fair, was the daughter of U.S. Sen. James Graham Fair of Nevada, who made a fortune in the Comstock Lode, a rich Nevada gold and silver strike of the mid 1800s.

The New York Landmarks Preservation Commission said the mission "is a prime example of the last phrase of classical house building in the palatial manner."

The commission added that it "would be entirely at home amongst those small retreats which were built by courtiers throughout the 18th Century at Versailles."

The original cost of the house is not known, but a Romanian source said his government paid $300,000 for it 12 years ago.

The Romanians bought the house from the Chrysler family. After Mrs. Vanderbilt, it had been owned by Mrs. Byron C. Foy, daughter of Walter Chrysler, founder of the Chrysler Corp., the auto manufacturers.

Finding themselves cramped for space several years ago, the Romanians placed the building on the market and reportedly received an offer in excess of $600,000.

The offer was rejected.

Romanian officials also have considered adding another story to the building, but this plan is being held up because of fears it would detract from the value of the building in the event of an evental decision to sell.

Another factor is the attitude of the ciy. The designation of a building as a landmark means that it may not be demolished or modified on the exterior.

Because of their diplomatic status, this provision may not apply to UN missions, which also are exempt from city real estate taxes, but the Romanians say they have no desire to get into a quarrel with the city or disturb friendly relations with their neighbors.

The Yugoslav mission, on Fifth Avenue, was built in 1903 for R. Livingston Beekman, a former governor of Rhode Island. It later was owned by Mrs. Emily Vanderbilt Sloane, a granddaughter of Commodore Vanderbilt.

Mrs. Sloane's husband, William D. Sloane, was a founder of a large New York store. After he died, his widow married Henry White, who served as U.S. ambassador in France and Italy.

The city landmarks commission describes the Yugoslav mission as "the finest extant 'small' house on the avenue." It is a narrow building of five stories and with a facade of stone. Its style is described as 'French eclectic."

It was ignored in the recent series of bomb explosions blamed on exiled Yugoslav terrorists, which damaged the Yugoslav consulate in New York, the embassy in Washington and other Yugoslav government buildings elsewhere in the United States and Canada.

"The style is palatial," the landmarks commission said, and the house displays "a new dignity, restraint and purity of manner, if not of style, which sets it apart as not only 'avant-garde' but also as a definite high - water mark in the history of the town facade."

Warren & Wetmore, the architectural firm that designed the Yugoslav mission, also drew the plans for the Indian mission. A larger building, it was erected in 1900 for Marshall Orme Wilson, a reference work says, made a fortune selling cotton blankets at woolen prices to the Confederate government during the Civil War.

The younger Wilson's wife was Caroline Schermerhorn Astor, the great - granddaughter of John Jacob Astor, whose many millions came from furs and real estate. Her mother was Mrs. William Astor, the most prominent socialite of her era.

Mrs. Wilson, widowed and alone, died in the early 1940s and bequeathed the house and all its rich furnishings to a servant. The Indian government bought it from the servant in 1948.

The oldest former home now used as a UN mission is that of the delegation of Senegal. This five - story brick building was put up in 1877, but landmark commission records do not disclose the original owner. The commission says the house has "a handsome door" and is "otherwise sophisticated in a plain kind of way."

The Greek mission was built in 1907 for George L. Rives, a prominent New York lawyer who was a trustee of the New York Public library. A Georgian-style home, it "shows itself in every particular as the work of (an architectural) firm of the first rank," the commission says.

The Polish mission was originally owned by Charles Scribner of the New York publishing house that bears his name. It was built for him in 1909 at a cost estimated at $85,000.

Next door is the mission of the Philipines delegation, which also is Poland's neighbor in the alphabetical list of UN members. It was built in 1916 for Harris Fahnestock, a member of a wealthy family of New York investment bankers.

Need Milk For Nutrition

Dairy foods are vitally important for nutritionally adequate meals at any age. Milk and its products contain the building materials the body cannot manufacture — high quality proteins, calcium for healthy bones and nerve and muscle action, iron for healthy blood, and vitamins to help your body make proper use of food.

Milk and dairy foods are recognized as essential to health and well-being which is the reason for their being listed among the Basic Four food groups needed at any age. A nutritionally well-balanced diet will add to dairy products daily selections from meats and meat substitutes; fruits and vegetables, enriched breads and cereals.

Such a diet, fortified further by sensible exercise and adequate rest, will be, as Bacon said, "one of the best precepts of long lasting."

Theology Institute Set At Notre Dame in July

College of Notre Dame in Belmont will sponsor a Theology Institute on "Christ and Atheism" July 10-28 carrying two units of undergraduate credit.

Directed by Rev. Raymond J. Nogar, the Institute will embrace an analysis of the relation of the Church toward unbelief in the modern world; a consideration of new ways of examining atheism; new avenues of apologetics; and discussion of the basic priciples of Camus, Sartre, Beckett and others.

The lectures will summarize the influence of modern scientific and philosophical evolution on Christian thought and spirituality and, in terms of the future of man, evolutionary humanism in the light of the Incarnation of Christ as the Lord of History.

'Unsafe, Insane' Fireworks Play

"Safe and sane" fireworks which three teen-age San Carlos brothers revised into a "fire bomb" rocket, landed on the roof of a home early Sunday, starting a fire which did an estimated $12,000 damage.

The occupants of the home at 278 Vine Street, Mr. and Mrs. John Vos and their 3-year-old daughter, fled after awakening about 4:15 a.m. to discover the roof and attic of the home afire.

Vos, 27, a law student, told Fire Capt. Ray Burt that he was awakened by a sound on the roof, thinking at first it was heavy rain. He then smelled smoke and discovered the house was on fire.

Burt said that remnants of a fire bomb devised from fireworks were found. He began an investigation and determined that three neighboring homes on the 200 block of Cedar Street also had such "bombs" land on their roofs earlier in the morning.

An informant related to the captain and to Policeman William Young that he had seen three boys throwing fireworks tied to sticks into the air from the yard of their home about 2 a.m.

The officers checked with the boys, who admitted they had been making rockets out of the fireworks and throwing them into the air. Several of the fire bombs were confiscated.

"It was a case of Safe and sane fireworks becoming unsafe and insane," Burt said.

The boys were charged by police with hazardous and reckless discharge of fireworks and turned over to their parents pending action by juvenile authorities.

Burt reported that the rocket which landed on the Vos home apparently hit in the middle of the roof over a hallway leading to a den above the garage where Vos operates a ham radio station. The fire apparently had been burning sometime before the noise awakened Vos, the captain said.

Flames caused extensive damage to the roof and spread into the attic where household and personal possessions were stored. The fire destroyed a portion of a valuable stamp collection, Burt stated, but firemen were able to cover and prevent loss to the radio equipment.

A total of 27 on and off duty firemen responded to the alarm. Burt estimated $10,000 loss to the building and $2,000 to contents.

Big Beer Theft In Redwood

Some time this past weekend someone broke into a box car outside a Redwood City beer warehouse and made off with several cases of beer.

The word spread quickly and others took advantage of the rare opportunity. Before the night was over, more than 100 cases of beer had been stolen and most of it had been stashed away in vacat lots and secret hiding places in the hills.

Redwood City police and the operators of the Regal warehouse at Charter Street and Broadway put a stop to it last night.

They staked out and arrested suspects one by one as they scaled the fence to get to the box car. Five juveniles and one adult, Joseph Eubanks, 27, of 3786 Rolison Road, Redwood City were arrested for prowling.

Earlier in the day police arrested two brothers after they had been seen recovering a case of beer they had hidden in a vacant lot. They admitted stealing the beer, but said the box car was already open when they got there.

Already shown to junior high and high school students, this film also is highly recommended for adults.

After the film showing, San Mateo Police officer Nina Pimentel will speak and conduct an open discussion on the subject of LSD. Admission is free.

According to the Code, humane officers "have the power at all places within the State lawfully to interfere to prevent the perpetration of any act of cruelty upon any dumb animal."

The appointment of Mrs. Guiney and six other new state humane officers was held in conjunction with a conference for humane officers from throughout the state sponsored by The Humane Society at the Mansion Inn, Sacramento.

Vicki Rosa, 15, shows off hereford steer Smitty. Vicki, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Rosa, 117 Ravenwood, Daly City, says that Smitty weighs well over 800 pounds. Right now, Vicki is readying her steer for the beef cattle competition and auction at the San Mateo County Fair and Floral Fiesta, July 31 through August 12. The competition will include not only the South San Francisco 4-H Club, but 4-H and Future Farmers of America from all over the county.

S.S.F. 4-H Club Prepares For The County Fair

Members of the South San Francisco 4-H Club are busily attempting to ready their livestock and projects for the competition at the San Mateo County Fair and Floral Fiesta, July 31 through August 12.

Mrs. Al Firenze Sr., local club leader for the group, stated that now that the youngsters are out of school work is preceeding at a very rapid pace on almost all of the projects. The South San Francisco club will have Fair entries in almost every division from clothing manufacture and home furnishings to beef and dairy cattle.

At last year's Fair competition the South San Francisco 4-H Club brought home several awards, winning over five major honors in 21 divisions. This year Mrs. Firenze hopes that the youngsters will do even better. The Fair brings contestants from all over the county and from several different organizations to compete for prizes and to sell their livestock and goods at the Junior Livestock Auction.

Councilmen Eye Planning Economy in D.C. Budget

By FRANK LaPIERRE

Should an assistant city planner be hired,? is a question facing the Daly City Council today as efforts continued to shave dollars off the $5.5 million proposed budget.

City and regional planning expert Larry Livingston suggested the city add another planner to its roles during a study session of the council Thursday night.

Livingston's firm was awarded the contract to formulate a General Plan for Daly City at a total cost of some $105,000. Work was expected to get underway on the project within 30 days.

Because of the amount of work involved in not only the general plan — which will take about two years to complete — but later capital improvement programs, Livingston thought the city planner's office should have additional personnel to aid Planner Edward Lawson.

Councilmen dicided to discuss the matter of a second planning position "in depth" before taking any action.

A decision on the added slot and recommended salary increases was expected around the middle of July.

During Thursday night's special meeting the council passed a resolution appropriating some $700,000 for needed expenditures until the final budget is adopted in August.

A Final budget cannot be adopted by the city until assessed valuations are received from the County Assessor.

At the time of adoption in late August the tax rate is $1.22 per $100 assessed valuation.

A city hall spokesman said this rate would "more than likely" rise by some ten cents to meet demands of the slightly increased budget.

Money for the General Plan, however, is not included in the city budget, but comes from a federal grant made recently to the city.

In order for cities to qualify for certain federal funds, they must first have an approved general plan showing where the city intends to go in the future —and how they intend to get there.

The present general plan study was scheduled to last until December 1968.

Biggest question facing Planner Livingston, in his overall study, is whether the Bay Area Rapid Transit District (BARTD) will extend its raillines down the Peninsula or stop in Daly City.

"The reason this is a problem," Livingston said, "is simply because our study time runs out before BART has to make its decision on the extension."

Could Speed It Up

Livingston said the schedule could be accelerated if the council found it necessary to complete the study before the December, 1968 deadline.

The study will cover an area bounded by San Francisco, Pacifica, South San Francisco and Brisbane and will include all of San Bruno Mountain.

Land use, traffic circulation, public facilities, utilities, civic designs, economic studies and special area studies are also included in the project, Livingston said.

A "citizens committee" made up of local residents was expected to be appointed by the council to study various aspects of the plan during the study process.

After turning in their recommendations the committee would "rest" until the series of public hearings were held," Livingston told the council.

Apartment Blaze Starts at Furnace

Daly City Fire Capt. Lyle Church said a wall furnace probably caused the fire in a Santa Barbara Street apartment early last Thursday.

Firemen responded to the call to the apartment occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Albert Heick at 192 Santa Barbaraa, Apartment No. 3, at 4:42 a.m.

Heick, alone at the time, was awakened at the early hour either by the strong smell of smoke or the extreme heat of the blaze as it smoldered.

Heick, according to Church, evidently had little trouble getting out of the smoke-clogged two-bedroom apartment, although he appeared to have "taken quite a bit of smoke," as did two firemen.

None, however, was listed as njured.

The fire captain estimated structural damage at $1,000 and loss of furnishings at $500.

He said the fire started at the furnace, in the living room, spreading to overstuffed chairs, and behind the wallboard, charring some studding.

An assortment of clothing, a couch and lamps in the front room also were destroyed.

PUC Demands Bus Firm Hike Safety

The California Public Utilities Commission has ordered Northgate Transit Co., Inc. to hire a qualified mechanic and to provide a system of bus safety inspection, whereby each of its buses is inspected at least once a month by its mechanic. The mechanic must maintain and repair all buses Northgate operates.

Northgate provides service from just within the San Francisco city limits at Templeton and Mission Streets, south to South San Francisco, to Westlake and other Daly City areas and to Stonestown.

All buses used are owned or leased by the drivers and each driver is responsigle for upkeep to required safety standards. Repairs generally are made on the drivers' days off. Drivers keep all fares and pay Northgate $20 per week.

A fare increase was authorized in February, 1964, and Northgate was ordered to replace certain unsafe buses, hire a general manager and institute a satisfactory system of vehicle maintenance. Investigation into the bus line's compliance was ordered in August, 1966, and a public hearing was held in Daly City.

California Highway Patrol witnesses testified to many unsafe conditions on Northgate buses and many safety violations of the California vehicle code. At various times 17 buses were ordered out of service until repairs were made.

A Highway Patrol supervisor testified that if violations continued with the same frequency and magnitude the patrol would seek criminal prosecutions.

The mechanic must be hired and the maintenance system started within 50 days.

New Reading Exhibition

Another rapid reading demonstration session is being planned by the San Mateo County YWCA July 6 at 7:30 p.m. in the conference room at 45 Southgate Drive, Daly City.

The demonstration will outline the course currently offered by the YWCA, measure reading skills, and chart a practical and professional reading and study skills program. This one session is open to men, women and teens at no charge.

Registrations are still being accepted for the summer term of YWCA activities and classes. Signup may be for as many weeks as you are able to attend.

Available are classes for tots, juniors, teens and adults; offered are tennis, golf, guitar, ballet, bowling and billiards, Hawaiian dance, and the rapid reading. Tot classes include nursery school sessions, arts and crafts and creative group activities.

The Teen and Young Adult cerebral palsy had a triple-treat last week.

The Rotary of Daly City took them to the Giants ballgame where they ate all they wanted while sitting in the sunshine, and Willie Mays hit a home run.

It was the third annual ballgame of the Daly City Rotary Club for the members of the "More Than Fun" and the "FAD Club," recreational groups sponsored by the United Cerebral Palsy Association of San Mateo County, Inc.

A bus was provided by the Rotarians for the 28 members attending. Even those in wheel chairs were hoisted on and off the bus and lifted into seats at the ball park.

Representatives from the Daly City Rotary Club were Alfred Belotz, Clarence Pughe, James Trevor, Edward Goodman, John Wuerthner.

The United Cerebral Palsy Association of San Mateo County, Inc., a United Crusade Agency, is the only agency providing recreation for the physically handicapped in the county.

The two groups which meet weekly are open to all handicapped young people from 13 to 23 years of age.

Information may be obtained by calling the UCPA offices at 48 Park Road, Burlingame.

Besides the handicapped youngsters, there are many non-handicapped young people who, as active members, assist in the games, bowling, crafts, swimming, dramatics and singing, and, of course, there are extra trips such as the baseball game.

Attending the Giants ballgame on June 19 as guests of Daly City Rotary were:

Hillsborough: Terry Amos.

San Mateo: Barry Berg, Paul Coggins, Linda Jacobson, Rico Musto, Barbara Riddle, Kathy Neal, and John Romero.

Pacifica: Frank Clawson, Karen Madden.

San Carlos: Nancy Clyde.

San Bruno: iJmmy Engvalle Kent Sicklebower.

Burlingame: Bill Oberhofer.

He has also been active in other civic organizations in the area, and currently serves as district commissioner for the Boy Scouts of America, Serra District.

He received the Silver Beaver Award for distinguished service to the Scouts in 1964.

Belotz has also been active in the United Fund Crusade, Cerebral Palsy Fund Drive, Mary's Help Hospital Building Fund, school bond campaigns and other community projects.

More than 70 Rotarians and their wives attended the installation banquet, held at the Olympic Club. Judge Paul Hupf was installation officer.

Scholarships To N. County Youths

More than 800 undergraduate scholarships for the coming academic year have been awarded to California students by the Berkeley campus of the University of California.

Contributions from the California Alumni Foundation, the Regents and numerous public service organizations, foundations, and memorial funds provide the bulk of the Berkeley campus scholarship fund.
